BIG DEATH STRIP ARMED BY CHINA

HONG KONG (AP)—Red China has sent substantial troop reinforcements to Sinkiang province and has cleared and fortified a belt 20 miles deep along hundreds of miles of the disputed border with Russia, White Russian refugees said Wednesday.

The refugees from the remote region of north-west China reported the two feuding giants of world communism are waging a propaganda war across the border and tension runs high.

In their feud over the best road to world Communist domination, Peking and Moscow frequently have lifted the curtain on their private cold war in Sinkiang.

The refugees, who reported they abruptly were allowed to leave Sinkiang recently after a four-year ban, gave what they said was a first-hand account of the struggle in one corner of the vast region. There were 125 White Russians in the party that reached Hong Kong after 12 days on buses and trains.

They came from Kuldja (Ting), 50 miles from the Soviet frontier, where Moslem minorities revolted and were brutally suppressed on May 28, 1962. They gave this account of events leading up to the bloodshed in Kuldja:

Soviet consular and military representatives in Kuldja had worked for years on the Moslems, indoctrinating them and urging they go to the Soviet Union. Then in 1960, the Soviet consulate began a distributing passports to all Moslems.

A flood of Moslems began to cross into the Soviet Union. There were rumors in Kuldja that 500,000 to 600,000 crossed. The alarmed Chinese then decided to clamp down and that led to the rioting in Kuldja.

The May 29 demonstrations were the first and last in Kuldja," one White Russian said. "The city has been turned into an armed camp. Troops are everywhere."

They said that in setting up a sort of buffer belt along the border, the Chinese cleared civilians from a number of villages and turned the villages into military bases.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI)—A threatened boycott by Communist China blocked Russia's participation Wednesday in the proposed second Afro-Asian solidarity conference, Indonesia and The Philippines also succeeded in freezing out Malaysia.

The decision not to invite Russia and Malaysia was reached after hours of heated debate by the 22-nation preparatory ministers meeting.

Informal sources said, after the extraordinary session which lasted until 8 a.m., that Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi told the delegates in unmistakable words China would not attend if the Russians were invited.

Red China Goes If Russia Stays

Foreign Aid Slashed By Moscow

LONDON (UPI)—The Soviet Union has drastically reduced aid to the developing nations because of domestic economic difficulties and disappointment over the results of its assistance policies.

These findings emerged from a study published in the current issue of the Royal Institute of International Affairs, The World today.

The Soviet's foreign payments position, according to the study, was responsible for "the discernible loss of impetus in Russia's aid to retarded countries outside her orbit."

Mao Bungled—Nikita

MOSCOW (AP)—Waving his arms in anger, Soviet Premier Khrushchev said Wednesday Red China now preaches world revolution because Mao Tse-tung and other leaders bungled in trying to solve problems at home.

Peking's policies "have created serious difficulties for the world Communist movement and placed it on the verge of a split," he told a Polish-Soviet friendship meeting in the Kremlin.

CAUTIOUS SUPPORT

The meeting was an encouraging one for the premier. Wladyslaw Gomulka, the visiting Polish party leader, announced cautious support for the Soviet call for a world Communist showdown meeting on Red China. While backing Moscow, Poland has been reported cool toward a showdown meeting, fearing an irreparable division of world communism.

His voice rising to a shout, Gomulka ridiculed the Chinese for calling the West "a paper tiger." He declared no "imperialist" country is ripe for revolution, as Peking contends, "least of all the United States."

SCOFFS AT ASPIRATIONS

In his address, Khrushchev scoffed at Red Chinese aspirations for leadership of world communism. He said the Chinese would like to "become the leaders and mentors of the revolutionary movement in Asia, Africa and Latin America," but Chicago court yesterday ruled novel, play and movie Compulsion were invasion of privacy of Nathan Leopold, 50, freed in 1958 after serving 34 years for 1924 Bobby Franks triple killing. Damages will be set later; Leopold sued movie-maker Darryl Zanuck and others for $1,405,000.

Defence Thefts Quiet

Great Garbage-Can Raid, Too!

OTTAWA (CP)—A can opener was stolen from the RCAF station at Downsview, Ont., last October, it was disclosed Wednesday. It followed, by less than a month, the theft of a garbage can from the RCAF station at Bagotville, Que.

With the chaps who raided two Quebec armories earlier this year hogging all the publicity, a less ambitious band of defence property lifters was working from coast to coast without fanfare.

A piccolo was hooked from HMCS Naden last Christmas Eve. And just two weeks later someone left Camp Shilo, Man., with some sewer cleaner.

Between the notorious raid on the Montreal armories and the equally notorious raid on the Shawinigan armories, someone stole two pounds of beef from Camp Geogtown, N.B.

All these thefts from national defence property were disclosed Wednesday when Associate Defence Minister Cardin replied to a question by Gordon Churchill, former Conservative defence minister who wanted a list of all such thefts since last Sept. 1.

The list had about 270 items, stolen in all sorts of quantities.

Camp Valcartier, Que., Jan. 24.

One of the most fascinating listings was taken from Camp Farnham, Que., Oct. 11. It was described simply as an "DND (Defence) vehicle," and there was no indication whether it was a Sherman tank or a wheelbarrow.

Viet Nam

'Stunning' Victory Won By Reds

SAIGON (AP)—Military leaders assessed Wednesday the grim results of a three-day battle in a southern area of South Viet Nam set off by a deliberate Communist massacre of government sympathizers at Kien Long, a district capital.

"A stunning Communist political victory" was the judgment of one American observer in that blood-soaked, grief-stricken region.

U.S. advisers said nearly 300 government soldiers had been killed or wounded—the heaviest toll of a single engagement in the war. They said civilian casualties may exceed 200. The bodies of 50 or 60 guerrillas were counted in fire-charred paddy fields.

The government mounted its drive after the Communists moved out of a base Sunday in the forest of U Minh, along the Gulf of Siam, and overran Kien Long, which is on a section of the Ca Mau peninsula, long their stamping ground.

The raiders publicly disembowelled the district chief. They slew his young son. They broke the arms and legs of the chief's wife and then killed her with a shot in the head. They slew other government sympathizers, then headed back into the countryside.

In the ensuing battle, two Communist Viet Cong battalions opposed a government paratroop battalion, a ranger battalion, two infantry battalions and a special forces unit. Surprisingly, they carried the fight into government lines even in daylight.

Turk Fire Returned By Canadians

NICOSIA (UPI)—Canadian troops of the United Nations peace force exchanged fire with Cypriot soldiers for the first time Wednesday as heavy battles raged in Nicosia and its northern suburbs for the second consecutive day.

British UN troops also fired back at Cypriot fighters in the heaviest shooting since the communal war between Greek and Turkish Cypriots broke out last December on this eastern Mediterranean island.

(See also Page 3)

TAKING PART

A Turkish defence ministry spokesman in Ankara said Turkish air force planes and submarines also were taking part in the fleet exercise scheduled to be completed by Sunday. He said live ammunition was being used in the manoeuvres. Turkey has held fleet manoeuvres near Cyprus whenever violence on the island has been reported rising.

In Athens, Cyprus President Archbishop Makarios told a news conference he would accept aid from any country.

Rodrigues

Carlow 'Partner' Found in Calgary

The man who escaped Colquitz prison with Frank Carlow has been apprehended in Calgary.

Sanwich police said last night they have been notified of the recapture of Richard Rodrigues, 26, who broke out of the prison with Carlow Feb. 28.

SIX MONTHS

He was sentenced April 6 to an additional six months for escaping.

It is not certain Rodrigues, who was serving a term for burglary, will see the Colquitz prison soon. He faces 12 charges of breaking and entering in Calgary.

Carlow claimed he never saw Rodrigues after the two men escaped through a basement window, from which they had sawed a bar, in the Colquitz dining hall.

TO TELL FUELHO

Carlow, 26, caused a furor when, hours after his escape, he got in touch with members of the press and said he had escaped only to tell the public of unbearable conditions.

Carlow's charges were denied by prison authorities, and there have been no announcements of any changes in conditions.

Canada's Problem

WHILE Mr. Pearson was emphasizing the broad need for tolerance and unity in federal-provincial affairs in his Commons speech on the future of Confederation he seems once more to have tilted the balance in favor of Quebec. It is his emphasis on what he repeatedly calls its "special position" that singles it out and in fact complements the "looseness" in attachment which he rightly deprecates would be a factor detrimental to the nation.

The core of Canada's problem is the tug of war between the federal and provincial governments as to the sharing of the powers and finances of the nation as a whole.

In a federated system this is always a point of difficult adjustment, but while as the prime minister concedes Ottawa should recognize the growing importance of provincial responsibilities it is no less vital to appreciate that Canada as a nation is greater than its parts. The federal government must be strong enough to meet its larger obligations.

Mr. Pearson seems willing to consider a reallocation of the financial resources of the country, to the extent even of a change in the constitution to bring this about, but he warns against the weakening of the central government to the point where the validity of Confederation would be threatened.

At the same time he denies the unified image of Canada when he makes a plea particularly on Quebec's behalf as being separate in its concept and relation to the rest of the country. There can be no real unity of Confederation if as he claims "Quebec is not a province like the others." Confederation was founded on the assumption of the equity of all its provincial parts with respect to their place in the national hegemony.

Mr. Pearson says Confederation can be destroyed by a refusal to admit Quebec's special position, another of the vague generalizations that confuse the approach to the problem reflected by the current program of the bicultural-bilingual commission.

The French-speaking minority has certain rights, he says, and Quebec is the guardian of "its religious, cultural and linguistic" heritage. Few would deny this but there is small evidence that Quebec has ever been refused its rights in these specific realms. Nor while free to treasure and indulge these privileges should this be regarded as something that sets it apart from its fellows of Confederation in its liaison with national affairs.

Rather it has seemed that Quebec, in the exercise of this "special" position, would deny the all-inclusive rights and obligations that should mark the Confederation spirit in a national entity.

Mr. Pearson's own administration in particular has bent backwards, or so it has seemed to much of the rest of the country, to appease the sentiments of Quebec, and his proposed delay in initiating the new national pension plan in order to incorporate some of the features of Quebec's own and separate pension measure, could be construed as yet another gesture in this direction.

If there are some aspects of the Quebec plan which would be of advantage in the national scheme, and for instance increase the portability of its benefits, this is all to the good, yet there is no sign this will induce Quebec to drop its own intentions and join with the rest of the country in this desirable legislation. It still intends to hold to its "special" and separate position.

Properly enough Mr. Pearson did point out to Quebec that it had to be careful in its extremism and not exploit that position at the expense of Canada as a nation, something that could result in disruption and tragedy for the principle of Confederation. It is hoped his words in this respect will fall on receptive ears.

In total however the prime minister appealed for the kind of tolerance on the part of all the components of Canada that is so necessary to make Confederation work and thus confirm the structure of Canada as a nation. This should be the goal of all those entrusted with the conduct of its affairs, whether on the provincial or federal levels. Canada must remain greater than the administrative parts that compose it.

Just as Well . . .

THE IDEA of televising the debates of the House of Commons had a mixed reception in that chamber earlier this week, and because the discussion was cut off by a time limit there is no telling what the consensus of members of Parliament might have been. But the arguments against the proposal seem likely to weigh more heavily in the scales of public opinion than the reasoning for it.

Mr. Andrew Brewin, the NDP representative of Toronto Greenwood who made a private member's motion for a committee study of installing TV cameras in the House, suggested that through television the people of the country could be let in directly on the handling of Canada's great issues and could see their legislators at work, "warts and all," exactly as they were.

A Liberal also supported the proposal as a means of educating the public on parliamentary matters, and a Progressive Conservative observed that video coverage might result in much better attendance by the members.

But however valid these reasons, the idea is fraught with both drawbacks and dangers.

The most obvious of the latter is that appearance and impact on the home screen would soon become more important to some of the law-makers than the proper conduct of the nation's business; the political prizes of grandstanding in the Commons might seem too rich to resist. There would also be the likelihood—no matter which party was in power—of the government programming House activity to present itself in the best light whenever the cameras were on.

And from the practical point of view, as one member asked, how many watchers and listeners would there be? Even if the dangers became actualities, and the debate a competitive performance directed at the audience, the discussions of the Commons would not be the sort of TV fare to vie successfully with other offerings. The network that carried them—presumably the CBC at the taxpayers' expense—would be throwing away income and viewers.

It may even appear unlikely the cameras would frighten members into better attendance, faces being as anonymous as they are in a general scene—unless like hockey players the parliamentarians were assigned big identifying numbers to wear. One can hardly foresee this eventually.

Because it was "talked out" in the private members' hour, Mr. Brewin's motion has gone to the bottom of the list and probably will not reappear at this session. That seems just as well.

PLAY Ball was the cry this week across the line which echoed into our sports pages and bespoke, as perhaps nothing else does quite so symbolically, the summer season we await with relief. There is no substitute for the sun.

As it happens, as I write this the heavens have opened to give us one more taste of the sun that has been our fate this past grey winter and some workmen across the street have run for cover.

The ballplayers will run for equal protection at odd moments throughout this summer game of baseball, here as in the U.S.A., but for Canadians the present preoccupation is with the hockey playoffs, the last remnant of winter sport. The games rush the seasons, one beginning before the other has left off.

One of these days, too, the stadiums of American big-league baseball games will have a roof over them, and surprising it is that they don't already have. An era that can send astronauts into orbit and perform other miraculous feats is sadly remiss in this respect. And I suppose baseball will become a winter sport then as well as a summer one.

Further to confound the spectators and play havoc with the rival box-offices no doubt. As well as destroying the summer symbol of "Play Ball."

In customary fashion the American president threw out the first ball, part of the ritual without which the season could not begin, presumably. Ritual slings to mankind as he did when the early medicine man wore his spells.

I was intrigued, though, with the fact that Mr. Johnson wore a glove on his left hand while pitching the sphere with his right. This is the norm of baseball playing but I don't suppose the president expected a return that would bring his left hand into action. Why then the glove?

Not being a baseballer, either past or present, albeit a chap who absorbs these notions of athletic culture as he reads of outdoor pursuits, I couldn't begin to guess.

As far as that goes I am always puzzled why baseball managers find it necessary to dress like the players they send on and off the field. They have no intention of playing first or second base or showing how this should be done by getting into the game themselves, and their field incursions are limited to running out to argue with the umpire.

But our own hockey coaches and manager-coaches, for instance, currently on view in the Stanley Cup telecasts which are admirably done and very exciting, don't dress the hockey part. Judging by what I have witnessed the main sartorial preference seems to be a dark business suit and a soft hat well pushed back on the head to let frustration and hope have their freedom.

In baseball the dark suit is reserved for the umpires, which in such a dusty game also strikes me as peculiar. The cleaning establishments must welcome the baseball season.

True enough a hockey coach or manager on skates would seem to be carrying ritualism too far, as well as make his anxious walk back and forth behind the players' bench rather awkward, and unlike his baseball fellow-member he isn't quite so free to step into the playing area.

All of which foregoes, are very idle thoughts, as you will recognize, and they stem only from the welcome news that "Play Ball" is now the thing. I won't be playing, nor, I fear, watching either, but it means summer is on the wing. I trust.

A U.S. Opinion

Canada's Example

From The Oregonian

CANADA'S defence minister, Paul Hellyer, is going to try something no other modern nation has been able to achieve. He announced in the House of Commons that he is merging the Canadian army, navy and air force into a single service, and expects to save $100 million a year by doing it.

Needless to say, this has been tried before, in Canada and elsewhere, but the proudful armed services have always prevented it by political pressure.

As far as the United States could get was to put the separate services under a single head, the secretary of defence. But the services are just as separate as ever.

Admirals and generals contend that pride in their services and the competitive spirit make each service better. Many Americans, we feel, would consider this spirit the corps misplacement. Pride in a single American service and the nation it undividedly served ought to be greater than pride in a separate service on the basis of its performance as measured by another U.S. service. Besides, if Canada can save $100 million by merger, the United States could save 10 times that.

"But how far can it get before it has to be refueled...?"

China's Drive for Satellites

By HOWARD GREEN

Former Secretary of State for External Affairs

IT now seems clear that the Soviet Union and Mainland China have come to a parting of the ways; that there is a struggle between them for the support of the various smaller Communist countries—and of the Communist parties in the non-Communist nations of the world.

One might think that China would fare very badly in this contest. She probably will in so far as the present Communist countries are concerned, but they are not numerous. On the other hand she may do very well indeed in gaining support from the Communist parties in non-white countries which are presently not aligned with either Washington or Moscow.

With them she is using the argument that all the white nations, including Russia, are suspect. She is urging the colored nations of the world to unite behind her. This appeal is backed by aid to various African and Asian countries and by skillful and ever-growing lobbying by Chinese representatives.

I doubt whether she will meet with much success. One reason is that in economic development China lags far behind the Western nations, the Soviet Union and such other Communist countries as Poland and Czechoslovakia. They have had a great deal more to offer to the less developed nations.

Then again her actions in Tibet and her aggression against India have left many nations wondering just how far she is to be trusted. While she is comparatively few leaders in those new nations most of them are well educated and can size up these situations just as accurately as most Western leaders.

Another factor which will prevent any flocking to the Communist Chinese banner is that these new countries are determined to stand on their own feet. They do not intend to become satellites of any other country—either in the political field or the economic.

Having gained their independence after years of longing for and struggling for freedom they are unlikely to submit themselves to domination by any country, no matter how large and no matter whether it is white or non-white.

We learned this at the Commonwealth prime ministers' meeting in London in 1962. On that occasion the Africans were told that if Britain joined the European Common Market they could get associate status in that market—just as the new nations which are members of the French Community had done.

They were urged by the British to agree and it was obvious that the result of doing so—of course if Britain herself joined the Common Market—would be to give them a favored position in Europe for their products.

But in spite of this certain benefit they said "no" at the start of the conference and kept on saying it right to the end—and they stuck together. No arguments or inducements could budge them or break down the common front.

Old Names

Your note in a recent issue concerning Sam Lane of the Old England Inn, and a Sam Lane in Shakespeare's time was most interesting; and could no doubt be widely corroborated. My wife and I had two entirely separated experiences along this very line.

In 1815-16 she was in the Land Army in England, at Huntley, Gloucestershire, in the ancient Forest of Dean. She lodged in the cottage of a local resident named James Hatt. In 1470, during the disturbed War of the Roses period, one of the not-uncommon "private wars" of the era was being carried on between Lord Berkeley and Lord Lisle. In this particular scuffle Lord Lisle in the heat of the fight raised the visor of his helmet to take a drink of water; and while thus exposed was mortally wounded in the throat by a Pierrot of Dean archer named James Hatt.

In the year 1913 I was taught to ride the bicycle in Coventry by a citizen of Coventry named Thomas Jakeman. The old Coventry city records show a citizen of Coventry named Thomas Jakeman in 1434.

Scots Rugby

It will, indeed, be a great treat to see Scotland's international rugby team play in Victoria next month.

However, for the sake of the records, I should like to question the accuracy of several points mentioned in a notice of the event, which appeared in the Colonist.

Scotland's rugby team was not the only side, as you say, to hold the touring New Zealand All Blacks during their recent tour of Britain. A Welsh club side not only held them but inflicted upon them their only defeat of the tour.

I believe that the Calcutta Cup is contested for by Scotland and England only and that there is no British Isles championship as such but one which includes France also.

Scotland did not win this championship this year but shared the honor with Wales, who were unlucky only to draw with France in the game which was seen at Cardiff by the University School team, who did so well over there.

Our Readers' Views

To be a citizen of a country is to have certain responsibilities and to be subject to certain laws. It is not enough to be a resident in a country, but to be a citizen, one must be subject to the laws of the country and to the responsibilities of citizenship.

Opposed

Your Oak Bay readers need to watch the papers for the "short sales"—as they will want lots for the next 20 years—if that by-law passes.

As I understand, that $11 a year on a house of the value of $15,000, does not take into account the operation loss, which I am sure will occur.

One wonders why the said location was chosen—perhaps they intend to make the Bowker Creek into the swimming pool!

There's lots of vacant land in the Uplands, just as cheap as buying those houses.

TAXPAYER.

Poor English

Three cheers for C. Norman Sankar who in The Islander of April 5 so sharply comments on the tendency to lower the levels of English language. He is so right in everything he says. I like particularly his observation that "most of the changes in the language originate with the ignorant."

People who are too lazy to bother to find out the correct way to use the language are happy to see standards lowered because under such conditions their now ignorance and sloppiness becomes less apparent.

L. AUSTIN WRIGHT, 682 Birch Road, Sidney.

A Waste

I would like to go on record as agreeing in toto with both your correspondent "Fed-Up Ratepayer" and Mr. Howell.

In my opinion the Oak Bay Centre is unnecessary, unwanted, pretentious, snobbish in concept, and a complete waste of taxpayers' money. There are plenty of such "facilities" about, for those who like them—and these are not in the majority in Oak Bay. The site is poorly chosen and will cause hardship to established residents, who have their rights, and never did

Ottawa Offbeat

Strain Recurrent

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

SEEMS an uncommon amount of political dust is flying over the troubles Prime Minister Pearson and the federal government are having with Quebec Premier Lesage and the provincial administration.

So what else is new?

Ask parliamentary old-timers like Senator Tom Crerar and Senator C. G. "Chubby" Power. Both are former Liberal cabinet ministers of the Macdonald King days. Both are aged-in-the-public service veterans of nearly 50 years—to be strictly accurate, 47 years—on Parliament Hill.

Ask either of these parliamentary deans and chances are they'll ask you in return: just when hasn't there been stress and strain between Ottawa and Quebec City?

There have even been times when the situation was a whole lot more explosive than it is right now—such as in the years of the First World War, when there was fighting in the streets of Quebec in the conscription riots.

French Canada was "different" in those days also. It wanted to "opt out" of the war effort, with thousands in the province violently arguing with fists and even guns that Quebec was "separate" and "independent" from the other provinces and shouldn't be involved in something it considered exclusively English Canada's business.

The same situation arose, although with less violence, in the Second World War, and English Canada again compromised to accommodate French Canada on the explosive issue of compulsory military service.

But those were special situations, you say, restricted to the war years.

That's so, of course.

But English and French Canada have been snapping and snarling over who's going to take what from the taxpayers through the last 20 years. And Premier Lesage has yet to actually walk out physically on the federal and other provincial governments at a tax conference.

And Prime Minister Pearson still hasn't gone, hat in hand, down to Montreal to sue for peace.

Both those things happened before.

These tax conferences have been going on ever since the late '40s when the provinces opened the still-continuing negotiations with the federal government for surrender of some of the taxing powers they gave up for the emergency of the war years.

The late Premier Maurice Duplessis—a far harder rock than Jean Lesage—walked out both on Prime Minister Macdonald King, and later, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent.

On one of his walk-outs, Le Grand Maurice stayed out long enough to compel courtly old "Uncle Louis" to make a peace pilgrimage to Quebec.

Each time Duplessis took his walk, it broke up the conference, and there was angry talk about Quebec's intransigence.

He had an air about him, and when he picked up his hat and shrugged into his black coat with the velvet collar, he dramatically made it look almost as if he was walking out of Confederation.

Then came the day that emissaries from Quebec City let it be known on Parliament Hill that if the prime minister would proceed to Montreal, the premier would design to confer with him at a secret rendezvous, the time and place of which, of course, he himself would designate.

So off went Mr. St. Laurent, by special train, to unsuccessfully try shaking off the shadowing reporters and meet the Mighty Maurice in the privacy of a Windsor Hotel suite guarded by the premier's own special provincial police bodyguard.

And when the conference was over, Le Grand Premier held his press conference while the prime minister stood quietly, even humbly by and listened to what Quebec had imperiously laid down in the line of ultimatums, ukases, decrees, proclamations and assorted demands.

Then kindly old "Uncle Louis" returned in his special train to Parliament Hill, and Confederation continued creaking and squeaking along pretty much in the same way with Quebec, as ever, playing the prima donna—or is it the bad-tempered bird, kicking and screaming and biting the hand that feeds it?

Today In History

The British submarine Affray and her crew of 75 were lost on a training dive in the English Channel, southwest of the Isle of Wight, 13 years ago today—in 1951. The sub was located in 250 feet of water June 24. The Royal Navy said Aug. 21 that a substantial schooner was recovered.

1907—The McGill University medical building was destroyed by fire.

NIKITA S. Khrushchev celebrates his 70th birthday tomorrow in the middle of a vast political crisis affecting the whole future of the Communist world.

To imagine what the split with China means to Russia we should have to think of the effect on the United States of the break-up of NATO and of a violent political assault on Washington not only by Western Europe but India, too.

It may well be that Khrushchev will go down in history as the man who presided over the liquidation of the Communist empire and almost of communism itself. That, no doubt, is how Peking sees him.

Others, especially Russians, may remember him most as the man who brought political and economic reform at home and in the East European satellites; who revealed and ended the brutalities of Stalinism; who proclaimed the beginning of "Communist construction" and under whose rule the first men were launched into space.

Yet others, outside Russia, will never forget or forgive him for Hungary, the execution of Imre Nagy or his assault on Dag Hammarskjöld.

But all these successes or failures shrink into insignificance beside Khrushchev's main role as a world statesman, a role unprecedented in history: his responsibility for dealing with a quite new and deadly situation in which the future of the human race, in the crudest terms of physical survival, has lain in his hands.

The last 10 years, in which he has been at or near the apex of power, have also been the first 10 years in which the world has lived under the shadow of total disaster from nuclear war. It is a disaster which he—and the president of the United States—could personally precipitate if he chose, by either error or design.

How far has he grasped the significance of his situation? What has he done to discharge his greatest historical duty of ensuring that the human race survives and that this survival will no longer be left to chance?

Khrushchev's most celebrated contribution to the theory and practice of war and peace has been the revival of the idea of "peaceful co-existence between states with different political and social systems"—first attributed to Lenin—and the establishment of the doctrine, as a revision of Lenin, that war is not inevitable and is not a necessary step on the road to communism.

Khrushchev's position can be summed up: Communism is inevitable, but war is not.

However, ruling out nuclear war does not, he believes, necessarily mean a stopping "just wars" of "national liberation." Nor does peaceful economic competition between socialist and capitalist countries mean that there should be political and ideological co-existence between them.

But what does all this really mean? Westerners asking themselves this question are sometimes told they attach too much importance to foreign policy in judging Russian affairs.

We do, indeed, need constantly to remind ourselves that Khrushchev is engaged not only in dealing with the West but also in governing a huge country of 230,000,000 people.

Foreign Policy Reflects Changes

It is also true that foreign policy often appears to be a reflection of changes inside Russia. A relaxation of world tension and disarmament may, for example, be sought not so much for themselves as because they are needed if more home resources are to be diverted from defence production to modernizing the economy and raising living standards.

Consequently Western diplomacy has been much obsessed with the "sincerity" of Khrushchev's motives and the nature of his personality. Does he really want peace and friendly relations or is "peaceful co-existence" merely a tactic imposed by domestic needs and the dangers of Western nuclear strength?

In he trying to lull the West into lowering its guard and softening its alliances, while he continues the struggle for Communist world domination by every means short of large-scale war?

Is he an opportunist with a gambler's temperament or a statesman who takes a steady constructive view of world affairs?

There have been many East-West crises during the last 10 years—in Europe, the Middle East, the Far East, even in the Americas. How Khrushchev handled his side of these crises can be interpreted to prove any of the above theses—the record is not conclusive.

In assessing the real priority Khrushchev has given to questions of war and peace, nothing is more important than to look at his struggle with China. For whatever else the quarrel with Peking may be about—and there are many reasons of conflicting state interests, personal rivalries and differing concepts of Communist bloc leadership—its constant theme is the nature of war and peace.

Prefers Theories To Greatest Ally

One may question the validity of Khrushchev's theories of peaceful co-existence and the extent to which he is able to or willing to put them into practice. But the fact remains that he has preferred to break with his greatest ally rather than give them up.

Harold Macmillan once described Khrushchev approvingly as "the first Soviet statesman to recognize that Karl Marx was a pre-atomic man."

The phrase was apt, but not strictly accurate. The first Russian statesman to declare publicly that atomic war would ruin the Socialist camp as well as the capitalist camp was not Khrushchev but Malenkov.

This was in 1953, the year that Stalin died and that Russia exploded the first hydrogen bomb. Malenkov did not spell out the implications of his statement for Leninist dogma. Khrushchev took it personally upon himself to contradict Malenkov, then prime minister, and insist that only the capitalist world would be ruined—a position he has since abandoned.

This was the beginning of the

great debate which has gradually convulsed the Communist world and which is also of profound importance for the West. The debate has centred on three points:

● Has the destructive scale of nuclear weapons changed the nature of war so that it would mean ruin for both sides? Or would nuclear war merely mean the end of the capitalist system, making it possible for the survivors to build a new world of Communist lines?

● Is war, as Lenin argued, an inevitable result of the conflicts within imperialism and of the imperialist need to try to crush the Communist world? Is the chaos born of war a necessary step towards Communist revolution?

● How far should Communist countries risk giving military support to revolutionary insurrections and wars of "national liberation" in other countries? Is it possible to reconcile peaceful co-existence with the "imperialist" powers and support for national liberation movements?

Khrushchev's performance as a world statesman has been closely linked with the zig-zag course of this still unsettled debate—some of it, especially the third point, still unsettled not only between Moscow and Peking but even, it seems, within the mind of Khrushchev himself.

But in judging the reality of the debate a number of other factors have to be born in mind.

There is the constant tension between Russia's two roles since the revolution, as a great power with her own national interests and as the leader of the world Communist movement.

China, Russia Equally Cautious

There is the constantly changing relationship of Communist doctrine and Communist practice. It can, for example, be shown that, while on each of the three major points in dispute China has taken a more extreme stand, she has in practice been just as cautious as Russia.

In Korea, which began as a mistaken adventure by Stalin, China did not react militarily until the Americans crossed the Yalu River.

In Indo-China she agreed to the 1954 compromise settlement which the United States would not sign. In Laos, she did not intervene directly, although it is right on her frontier, but accepted the neutralization agreement.

She has left British Hong Kong and Portuguese Macao alone—as Khrushchev tauntingly pointed out when answering Chinese criticisms over his retreat from Cuba.

She signed the five principles of co-existence with India in 1954 and took a leading part in the Bandung conference the following year before Khrushchev had really woken up to the importance and the possibilities of co-operation with non-Communist Afro-Asian states.

Finally, there is the use made of doctrinal authority in the rivalry between the Communist leaders themselves. Throughout the development of his co-existence policies, Khrushchev has had to show not only that they produce profitable results for Russia but also that he is holier than Mao and a truer interpreter of the Lenin scriptures than Molotov and other critics.

On the first point of the debate it was long before Khrushchev faced the obvious facts of nuclear war in the same way as Malenkov first did. More recently, in a speech in Berlin in January last year, he gave his most forceful answer to Mao Tse-tung's claim that a nuclear war might still mean victory for communism.

"Foreign scientists and military experts," he said, "estimate that the U.S. now has roughly 40,000 hydrogen bombs and warheads. Everyone knows that the Soviet Union, too, has more than enough of this stuff.

"What would happen if all these nuclear weapons were brought down on people? Scientists estimate that the first blow alone would take a toll of 700 to 800,000,000 human lives. 'All the big cities would be wiped out or destroyed—not only in the two leading nuclear countries, the U.S. and the U.S.S.R., but also in France, Britain, Germany, Italy, China, Japan and many other countries of the world.

"The effects of a nuclear war would continue to tell throughout the lifetime of many generations causing disease and death and the worst deformities in the development of people.

"I am not saying these things to frighten anyone. I am simply citing data at the disposal of science. These data cannot but be reckoned with.

"There can be no doubt that a nuclear world war, if started by the imperialist maniacs, would inevitably result in the downfall of the capitalist system, a system breeding wars. But would the Socialist countries and the cause of Socialism all over the world benefit from a world nuclear disaster?

"Only people who deliberately shut their eyes to the facts can think so. As for Marxist-Leninists, they cannot propose to establish a Communist civilization in the ruins of centres of world culture, on land laid waste and contaminated by nuclear fallout. We need hardly add that in the case of many people the question of Socialism would be eliminated altogether, because they would have disappeared bodily from our planet. . . .

Thus there can be no doubt that Khrushchev is fully aware of the facts of nuclear war, facts which were not foreseen by Marx and Lenin.

But it was not until the Twentieth Party Congress in February, 1956, with Malenkov still a member of the Party Presidium, that Khrushchev proposed and secured the formal revision of the Leninist canon of the inevitability of war.

War No Longer Fatally Inevitable

War, he said, was no longer "fatally inevitable" because the Socialist camp had become so overwhelmingly strong and the voices of the people in capitalist lands no clamant for peace that the imperialists could be prevented from launching war.

The same Congress also revised Leninist doctrine to admit that in certain countries, unspecified, communism might be achieved by non-violent means, and that there were many different roads to socialism which different countries might choose. The Chinese endorsed all these resolutions, although they have since criticized Khrushchev for pushing them through.

During those years when Khrushchev was beginning to preach co-existence, he was also campaigning for a return to the true revolutionary spirit of Leninism. At home he glorified the dominant role of the Communist Party and abroad he did all he could to stimulate and encourage "liberation" and anti-colonial movements.

But there were also the years of "thaw" at home and abroad: the Austrian treaty, the Indo-China and Korean settlements, the detente with Tito and Khrushchev's visit to Britain with Bulganin.

In practice, in all these crises, Khrushchev has shown himself aware of the dangers of local wars escalating into big ones.

Khrushchev's views on this vital point, his concept of the "dynamic status quo," were brilliantly analyzed by Walter Lippmann in his account of his first interview with the Soviet Premier in 1959. In Khrushchev's mind, he wrote, "the social and economic revolution now in progress in Russia, China and elsewhere in Asia and Africa is the status quo and he wants us to recognize it as such. In his mind opposition to this revolution is an attempt to change the status quo. Whereas we think of the status quo as the situation as it exists at the moment, he thinks of it as the process of revolutionary change which is in progress. He wants us to recognize the revolution not only as it is, but as it is going to be."

This dangerous ambiguity in Khrushchev's co-existence theory—the attempt to have the best of all worlds by holding a balance between de-Stalinization at home and militancy abroad, between a standstill agreement with the major Western powers and a free hand to encourage revolutionary change outside the Soviet sphere of influence—has been the main cause of his difficulties not only with the West but also with China and other Communist countries.

Hungary Caused First Big Crisis

It contributed to his first big crisis with the West over Hungary and Suez in 1956 which ended the first period of "thaw."

And almost cost Khrushchev his own position. More serious indications of the limitations of the theory came in the Middle East crisis of 1958 when, to China's disgust, Khrushchev refrained from sending troops into Iraq to forestall an American intervention, and, again, in the Cuban crisis three years later.

Both cases showed that while Russia could check an American military intervention in support of counter-revolution, she could not herself necessarily intervene actively in support of a revolution in progress.

Thus, to the nuclear stalemate was added the concept of strategic "neutralization" in the theatre of possible local wars, a concept which was to have its first formal application in the agreement on Laos.

Cuba showed Khrushchev the danger of bringing nuclear weapons, even passively, into a crisis over "national liberation." It proved to the U.S. the need to refrain from active military intervention to overthrow a successful Communist-type revolution even in its own sphere of influence. Above all, it taught the fundamental lesson that questions of maintaining world peace are more important than ideology.

The nuclear test-ban treaty was the first sign that Khrushchev had taken at least some of the lesson to heart. Against the background of his deepening conflict with China—from whom he had withheld nuclear knowledge since 1958—the test-ban treaty was a virtual public declaration that Khrushchev now put the achievement of nuclear stability before the demands of world Communist solidarity.

Over the Yemen and Cyprus, Khrushchev has since shown a new caution in leaving local crises of "national liberation" to be handled through the on-suspense United Nations.

The full implications of the simple lesson of Cuba have not yet been fully digested by either side.

For the past year Khrushchev seems to have been marking time in his movement towards a clearer understanding with the U.S. on the control of nuclear weapons. This is partly because America herself has not been ready and partly because Khrushchev feels he cannot move forward until he has settled his quarrel with China one way or another.

But it may also be because it is altogether too difficult for him, an old embattled Communist, to face the full consequences of shifting right through the theory of peaceful co-existence in a nuclear world.

For the preservation of peace now demands a degree of co-operation between the nuclear powers which it must be increasingly difficult to combine with unrestrained conflict and struggle in other fields. But to admit theoretically that this co-operation can be extended to questions of politics, economics and ideology—however much this may be happening in practice—involves no less than a revision of the whole dialectical basis of Marxism.

Khrushchev has already shown great courage in daring to say and do unorthodox things. Within the limits of his own philosophy he has pursued a coherent vision of the world which is constructive and humane.

We have all probably been lucky to have him in his place during this period of danger. He has understood the dangers of war. But whether he is capable of moving further to tackle the problems of a permanent peace remains to be seen.

Perhaps it may need a Russian of a younger generation to think through the dialectic of peace.

But Khrushchev has at least already paved the way, not only by his renunciation of nuclear war but also by putting "go-ahead before revolution" and bringing the idea of communism itself down to earth.

"Scalp tension, a sign of the times, is one cause of your hair loss," says trichologist M.D. Harrison to balding men. Harrison directs the famous Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists, whose main office is in Vancouver. He is sending a specialist here to advise men how to correct hair troubles by home treatment.

How to save and improve your hair demonstrated by expert here Friday

New home treatment methods for preventing baldness—and growing thicker hair—will be demonstrated in Victoria this Friday, April 16.

This news was released here today by M. D. Harrison, internationally famous director of Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists.

In his announcement, Harrison said that he himself will conduct the Victoria clinic. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Friday at the Hotel Sussex.

Examine You Free

"I want to make it clear that you incur no charge or obligation by seeing me," director Harrison said. "Your only obligation is to yourself—to free your mind of worries about hair loss, dandruff, itching, or other scalp disorders, by learning how to take care of your hair. If your trouble is beyond the scope of Harrison Home treatment, we will frankly tell you so. But less than five per cent of the people we examine are 'hopeless.'"

Offers No Cure-All

Harrison emphasized that his new home treatment is neither "mail-order" nor "cure-all."

"We always make a personal examination before suggesting any treatment," he pointed out. "There is no one cure-all that will correct every one of the 18 scalp disorders that cause most baldness."

Harrison said that sometimes your treatment must be changed after a few weeks to get best results. "For this reason, you mail regular reports of your hair progress to the Harrison headquarters in Vancouver."

"Also, your scalp condition is checked personally by a Harrison trichologist at regular intervals."

Who Can Be Helped?

Will this new treatment cure baldness? "No," said Harrison sincerely. "We cannot help men who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But where your scalp still grows hair, we can at least save and improve what you have. Usually, we can grow more hair even where you have only 'fuzz' now."

The important thing is: Don't wait until it's too late! Best evidence of the success of Harrison treatment is the phenomenal growth of the hair organization behind it. Harrison and his affiliates maintain treatment clinics in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico. And their staff trichologists regularly do extension work in more than 100 other cities.

Leonard A. Floyd before and after scalp treatment. Unchecked photographs made four months apart.

Satisfy 95%

"Our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim to do," declared Harrison. "We satisfy more than 95 per cent of our clients, and have records to prove it."

"But to overcome the average man's initial skepticism is sometimes difficult. He's usually quite desperate—and baldness by the time he nerves himself to see a Harrison trichologist. He's tried everything. So he starts consoling himself with one of the old superstitions about hair: That baldness is hereditary; that men naturally lose hair as they get along in years; that nothing can be done to stop hair loss—and a lot of other notions that we know are not true today."

Free Scalp Examination

See Mr. Harrison in person. Learn how baldness can be stopped, and new hair grown on your own scalp. The new Harrison method permits you to actually stop your baldness and regrow hair in the privacy of your own home.

For a free examination and discussion of your hair problems ask the desk clerk at the Hotel Sussex Friday between 1 p.m. and 8 p.m. for Mr. Harrison's suite number.

You don't need an appointment. You won't be embarrassed or obligated in any way. Examinations are given in private.

Missing Child Drowned

SMITHERS, B.C. (CP) — Tracey Janzen, 4, is dead.

She went missing about 5 p.m. Tuesday and the search went on all night in freezing weather.

Shortly before noon Wednesday a skindiver cradled her small form and waded ashore from the sluggish waters of Chicken Creek.

Her mother, Mrs. Ike Janzen, collapsed.

Tracey was last seen playing near her trailer home.

Cpl. Ted Piers of the RCMP called for volunteers. More than 250 men turned up.

"We got three bulldozers and all available men from the highways department. There were men and trucks from B.C. Hydro and from the telephone company. I understand some small businesses closed down so the staff could join the search."

All afternoon and all night searchers crawled along the banks of Chicken Creek and fanned out through the woods.

Early Wednesday the searchers found a small rubber boat on the bank of Chicken Creek.

Highways department bulldozers ripped apart a tangle of old logs and rammed earth into the creek to dam it. The diver waded out and found the body.

Docked Freighter Hit in Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British cargo ship Sunrip collided with a docked Greek freighter in the harbor Wednesday while moving from one pier to another.

No one was injured. Damage was confined to a four-foot gash in the stern of the Greek Delian Spirit and a small dent in the bow of the Sunrip.

Wednesday to nine months in prison.

Magistrate William Ostler in Victoria magistrate's court yesterday sentenced Gerald S. Haldane, 20, of Sooke, to nine months in jail on each of three counts of assault causing bodily harm. Sentences are concurrent.

He described Haldane as a leader of a gang which beat up three men in downtown Victoria overnight April 3.

He said the gang took advantage of physical and numerical superiority to carry out its senseless, unprovoked attacks on innocent citizens. "Conduct such as this will not be tolerated in this city."

In the attacks, the victims were walking along the street when the attackers jumped out of a car and beat them up. Two other youths are to be tried in connection with the same assaults.

Robert F. Millette was convicted in Victoria magistrate's court today of theft less than $50 in the Feb. 27 theft of a movie camera and a transistor radio from a car.

In his defence, Millette said that because of a medical condition he could not remember whether he had taken the objects. He said he was seeking medical treatment.

But Magistrate Ostler said Millette's first statements to police had been that he couldn't remember the acts because he had been drunk. He said Millette's actions indicated that he had not had a loss of memory at the time the offence was committed.

Millette was remanded to May 23 for pre-sentence and medical reports and sentence.

A youth was fined $50 and ordered to pay another $50 restitution when he appeared in Victoria magistrate's court yesterday in connection with the smashing of a plate glass window at National Motors, 819 Yates, early yesterday.

Albert V. Firman, 20, HMCS Naden, pleaded guilty to a willful damage charge.

Victoria police Const. Andrew Bell testified that he found Firman hiding in a parking lot and then a citizen came along and told the policeman that a window had just been smashed with a fist.

Victor J. Little, 2438 Esplanade, was fined $75 when he was convicted in Victoria magistrate's court yesterday on a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Magistrate Ostler described the case as "one of these minimal cases" and did not suspend Little's licence.

It was testified that Little was driving along a poorly lit section of Pembroke Street in rainy weather early Jan. 15 and his car hit a parked, seven-foot-wide truck. Little had been injured, had got out of the car and sat on the ground a short while and had driven home.

The magistrate said Little's serious injuries likely affected his judgment, but the evidence did not show that he was in such shock as to be unaware of his responsibilities.

Little was acquitted on a careless driving charge arising out of the same accident.

Deception Denied In Farm Benefits

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask. (CP)—Former Prairie Farm Assistance Administration Inspector J. L. Kraus denied Wednesday charges that he instructed a Gull Lake, Sask., farmer to falsify his 1962 application for benefits.

Mr. Kraus testified before a judicial inquiry headed by district court judge Harold Pope of Moose Jaw. The inquiry was formed to study alleged irregularities in the payment of about $500,000 in PFAA benefits to Swift Current farmers before the federal general election last spring.

The inquiry adjourned Wednesday afternoon. It will reconvene in Gravelbourg Monday. James Wanamaker charged Monday Mr. Kraus instructed him to list his 1962 acreage yield figure at a figure below its actual level.

The farmer said Mr. Kraus said he believed the claim would not go through, "and if I made my 1962 yield lower it would help others near my farm."

Poor Hit, Says U.K. Labor

LONDON (CP)—The Conservative government's budget increases on tobacco and alcohol once more increased the tax on low-wage earners, Labor Party spokesman James Callaghan said Wednesday.

Callaghan charged that the budget speech of Chancellor of the Exchequer Reginald Maudling Tuesday continued a Tory 12-year trend toward putting the tax load on the backs of individual taxpayers rather than on dividends and profits.

Labor's "shadow" chancellor said that Labor would revise the whole tax structure.

Easing of Divorce Stand Sought

Synod Moves for Remarriage

The Anglican Synod of the diocese of B.C. moved yesterday to make it possible for divorced people to be married by Anglican clergymen.

The motion was passed by a majority of clerical and lay delegates to the synod from all parishes on Vancouver Island.

Canon 27 now prohibits any Anglican clergyman from marrying a divorced person whose previous partner is still alive.

Earlier in the day Archbishop Harold Sexton of British Columbia, in his 27th charge to the synod, said horror movies and similar TV productions should be abolished.

He also scored unwholesome and suggestive literature as a "menace to the moral and spiritual health of our community."

On sex education in the schools, he said that many "of those who know the real conditions are troubled about the lax morals prevalent among young people today and feel that the situation calls for examination rather than condemnation."

Many experienced parents and teachers feel that factual biological information to school children must be supplemented by the teaching of moral and spiritual principles, he said.

A motion was passed yesterday to recommend to the provincial synod the appointment of a provincial supervisor of Indian work.

"Almost all of our Indian work is in this diocese," said Archbishop Patrick Edin of Campbell River, superintendent of Columbia Coast Mission, who made the motion. "The Indians feel the church should speak for them more strongly than they do."

Diocesan youth worker Gillian Clarke of Victoria told the group that adult councilors and leaders of both sexes, aged 16 and up, are needed for Camp Columbia on Thetis Island.

Archdeacon Edin said the Columbia Coast Mission had been taken off the Vancouver Community Chest list at a loss to the mission of $4,000.

"Why is it that the church cannot produce dedicated doctors and other men for this work?" he asked.

The motion on marriage of divorced persons was prepared by a special committee appointed by Archbishop Sexton and was made at yesterday's meeting by Victoria lawyer H. L. Henderson. Seconded was the Reverend A. E. Hendy, rector of St. Dunstan's, Gordon Head.

Daff Count Passed Up

Victoria will not take up the challenge of Niagara Falls tourist officials who have offered to compare daffodils.

The Greater Niagara Chamber of Commerce had wired W. H. Warren, Victoria parks administrator, offering to compare the number of daffodils in Queen Victoria Park overlooking Niagara Falls with any three-acre patch of flowers in Victoria.

Mr. Warren said yesterday Victoria, with a much milder climate, has nearly seen the last of its daffodils for this year—they have begun to bloom in late March.

revision of the present rule (Canon 27) will now be made to the General Synod of Canada.

The revised canon would give bishops authority under certain conditions to allow Anglican clergymen to marry divorced persons, although their partners are still living, so long as the bishops are "satisfied that there were good grounds for such annulment or dissolution" by Canadian civil courts.

Archbishop Sexton said the bishops "on the whole are sympathetic" to the motion.

"They are a very conservative group," he said. "If they approve, you may be sure it's quite safe."

Sessions of the synod will end today.

Sweet-Toned Choirs Take Over Festival

By KEN JOHNSON

The choral sections of the 1100-entry Greater Victoria Music Festival took over from the brasses, strings and woodwinds yesterday as the 11-day event moved into its fourth day.

Adjudicators Edison Harris and Walter Welke, both from the University of Washington, heard the remainder of the instrumental woodwind entries at Cridge Memorial Hall. Then came more than 20 groups of young children from Grade 1 to Grade 7 to show their choral prowess at Oak Bay Junior Secondary School auditorium. (See results on Page 12.)

HIGHLY PLEASED
Choral adjudicator Mr. Harris seemed impressed. He commented on diction and advised closer commitment to memory of the music so that the conductor could be followed, but on the whole, was highly pleased with the youngsters.

U.S. Students Guests Here

A group of 40 students from West High School, Bremerton, Wash., will arrive in Victoria today for a three-day visit.

The group, all honor students, will visit Mount View High School.

Not long ago, a group of Mount View students visited the Bremerton school.

In neat white shirts and bowties, the McKenzie choir was impressive as it sang two offerings, including Dunhill's Mother Duck.

Sweet-toned unison singing, styling and practised ease of other entries was a refreshing contrast to orchestral and instrumental offerings.

Land Plan Due Tonight

A plan for controlled development of 27 acres of university land on the Lansdowne campus will be presented at a public meeting tonight.

The proposal is a substitute for the plan to rezone the land for 10 six-storey apartment buildings which was strongly opposed by landowners in the area.

The new proposition, said Floyd Fairclough, university development board manager, is something new for B.C. There is nothing like it in Vancouver or Victoria.

"It won't be a second Uplands," he said.

Mr. Fairclough would not elaborate on the type of development proposed.

Engineers' and architectural drawings, and color slides of models will be available for viewing at tonight's meeting, in the Uplands elementary school at 8 p.m.

The 27 acres lies along Foul Bay Road behind the university buildings.

Esquimalt Dispute

Police Union Will Fight On

Reeve A. C. Wurtele said last night Esquimalt has no fight with its employees over whether police should be relieved of firefighting duties.

He was commenting on a conciliation board ruling confirming Esquimalt policemen must continue to be firemen as well.

The police union had sought to free its 15 members from the added burden of fighting fires.

Hearing On Pool

Esquimalt council has called a public hearing to find out whether the ratepayers want a $383,000 municipal swimming pool.

The hearing will be held in Esquimalt Junior High School at 8 p.m. April 27.

VOTE PLANNED

If the idea of an indoor swimming pool receives public approval, a referendum will be put to the ratepayers late in May or early June.

The pool would be built between the Sports Centre and Lyall Street, adjacent to Bullen Park.

$383,000 BYLAW

The money bylaw probably will be about $300,000 because it is estimated that after savings from the Municipal Development Loan Fund and the Winter Works program ratepayers will only have to meet $277,500 of the $383,000 total cost.

The reeve said the arrangement for a joint police-fire department has worked "amicably and satisfactorily to the great advantage of the municipality."

Reeve Wurtele added: "What we are prepared to do in the future I am not in a position to say."

NOT SAYING

"We have told the union it is possible over a period of time we will have our own fire department. But we are not saying when that day will arrive."

"This is a matter of policy affecting both the police commission and the council."

"It will entail adjustment of finances and must be worked out to the best advantage of the municipality."

NEVER TRIED

A spokesman for the police union said it had never tried to tell the municipality what to do.

"We just wanted to be relieved of fire duty," said Const. Frank Bell.

The union contends there are at least four ways Esquimalt could solve the problem: making an agreement with the navy to provide fire service; using Victoria city fire service; setting up a volunteer fire department; or creating a new municipal department.

SEVERAL MOVES

He said the union is disappointed by the ruling, but it is considering "several moves" to carry on the fight.

The board said any ruling in relation to the abolition of firefighting duties by the police department was outside its jurisdiction.

The union was certified in 1957 as a combined police-fire force.

OVERTIME CHANGE

Conciliators did, however, grant a new overtime agreement.

Members of the force will get time-and-a-half off for overtime. If they are unable to collect the time off, after six months they'll be paid in cash at a straight-time rate.

Conciliation board awards are binding on police and fire departments.

They're 74 And 'Nasty'

Police were called in yesterday to investigate the complaint of a woman who claimed she had been assaulted.

She told the officers every time she passed a fellow hotel resident in the street he made nasty remarks to her.

The man was then questioned and admitted making the nasty remarks—but only after the woman made nasty remarks to him first.

After more questioning police learned this was a feud that had been going on between the pair for about two years.

Both the man and the woman are 74 years old. No police action was taken.

Experience

Police 'Help' Queried

A letter asking whether city police are using unpaid civil defence personnel to help patrol city streets will be sent to the police commission by Victoria Labor Council.

The suggestion came from Charles Thompson, a member of the city employees' union, who said he had received the information from a fellow union man.

TAKING TURNS

A police spokesman told the Colonist last night approximately 11 civil defence auxiliary policemen were taking turns riding with city policemen to gain practical experience.

He said the plan was suggested by the civil defence authorities and was entirely voluntary. The men are given no orders but patrol with policemen simply for practical experience.

NEVER MORE

He added there were never more than three auxiliary policemen on any shift.

He said should a regular policeman run into difficulty he could ask the auxiliary man for assistance, "but then a policeman is allowed to ask any citizen for assistance."

The program has been in effect for a week.

Medlen Elected By Tory Group

Col. E. M. Medlen was elected president of Sidney and North Saanich Conservative Association at its meeting last night.

Other officers elected at the Knights of Pythias Hall in Sidney were: C. T. Skinner, vice-president; John Pedlow, secretary; and E. N. McQuarrie, treasurer.

Church Taking Over

Ghost at 1728 Quadra Losing Home

By JACK FRY

What will become of the ghost of 1728 Quadra Street when the 90-year-old house is torn down to make room for a church?

Members of the George Larrigan family aren't sure what will become of their uninvited visitor—but they claim he has been there at least two generations.

The Larrigan home at the southwest corner of Quadra and North Park streets has been sold as part of a site for a new church and the family will move to Beach Drive this month.

Mrs. Larrigan recently found a special edition of The New York Herald describing in detail the assassination of Abraham Lincoln and while talking about it yesterday, added a ghost might be around to read it.

Date on the well-preserved newspaper, discovered while Mrs. Larrigan was packing her belongings, was April 15, 1965—80 years ago yesterday. The little wood-frame building was built in 1874 by the late John Ward, a great-grandfather of George Larrigan.

Streets were unmarked in those days and North Park was then known as Pioneer.

A folding brass key patented March 23, 1869, and still among the Larrigan's possessions, unlocked the corner door leading into Mr. Ward's general store.

Living quarters are adjacent to the dusty old general store which has been closed since the late 1940s when the last of the Wards passed away and Mr. Larrigan inherited the property.

It is a strange house, full of relics from the past century.

A reporter cranked the old-fashioned doorbell and stepped in on the narrow corridor lined with collector's items. Mrs. Larrigan produced the yellowing newspaper which told of Lincoln's assassination at Ford's Theatre, and that Jefferson Davis intended to hold Virginia "at all hazards" despite the Confederacy's loss of Richmond.

She later mentioned "strange things" which happen in the old house.

Her husband had told her to keep the doors locked and, on one occasion when the outside doors were locked, Mrs. Larrigan said she heard a shuffling of shoes across the floor in another room.

She went through every room in the house but found nobody.

Frequently she has heard a "click" at the front door lock followed by footsteps along the corridor, when nobody is there.

Glass coasters have tumbled from shelves and other strange noises have been heard.

She told her husband about the noises and he replied they had been heard by his mother.

Mrs. Larrigan's story was confirmed by her daughter, Mrs. Marlew Johansen, who also lives there with her children John, 11, and Susy, 9.

"Susy asked us to save one empty box so we can take the ghost along when we move at the end of the month," said Mrs. Johansen.

Newsman Poor Ballast

LAURENCE (Newport)—The Mesocaphe, the world's first tourist submarine, became an embarrassing sight to Switzerland Wednesday when it refused to submerge.

About 20 international journalists were ushered aboard the 81-foot craft for its first trip to the bottom of Lake Geneva. The Mesocaphe's nose filled a few centimetres into the water. Its stern remained high and dry.

Red-faced officials hurriedly crammed in another 10 journalists as ballast and tried again, but the 180-ton submarine remained buoyant.

Frogmen then discovered that 3½ tons of metal ballast, attached electro-magnetically to the Mesocaphe's sides, had dropped off during the night.

After a few hours delay for re-ballasting, about 5,000 pounds of ballast were slowly lowered 80 feet into the twilight waters.

Theatre Turns Tables

OTTAWA (CP)—The shoe is on the other foot at the Canada Council.

The council, which has been giving financial help to arts organizations for the last seven years, acknowledged "with warm pleasure" a $25 gift from the Gostown Players of Vancouver.

The gift was the first the council has ever received from a theatrical company.

Redistribution Bill Advances

OTTAWA (UPI)—In an unusual display of unanimity, Parliament Wednesday gave second reading of a bill setting up a non-partisan redistribution of Canada's electoral boundaries. A clause-by-clause study of the bill will continue today.

Court Frees High-Jinkers

RIVERHEAD, N.Y. (UPI)—Four young socialists charged with helping wreck a guest mansion during high-jinks that followed the coming-out party of debutante Fernanda W. a-n-a-m-a-k-r Wetherill were found innocent Wednesday.

Judge Thomas Stark, who heard the case without jury, said he was not concerned with "wholesale house-wrecking" but only with the specific charges against the four defendants.

TORE LOOSE

One of the defendants, Eaton Brooks, 21, a student at the University of North Carolina, who is from Darien, Conn., was charged with standing on a mantelpiece and swinging on a glittering chandelier which tore loose from the ceiling and crashed down on top of him.

His co-defendants were Greenville Toogood of Philadelphia, charged with breaking a pane of glass in a French door; Thomas Molynieux of Philadelphia, charged with breaking a lamp; and Samuel Shipley III, also of Philadelphia, charged with breaking dishes and light bulbs.

RESTED CASE

As soon as the defence rested its case, attorney Gordon Lipitz asked the judge to dismiss the charges because "some of these boys are members of the social register and they are being made into a public spectacle."

Assistant district attorney Theodore Jaffe angrily objected.

"If these had been some poor kids who didn't have the advantage of college, who were poverty-stricken and humble, then there might have been some excuse," he said.

Varsity Drive Gets $1,200 Gifts Up to $100 Received

Donations as high as $100 are included in the $1,200 received in the first 10 days of the University of Victoria Alumni Association's fund drive.

The association needs at least $5,000 to carry out its work, said Floyd Fairclough, association spokesman.

He added that it is difficult to assess how much will be required because this is the first year the university has conducted its own drive. In the past it has been shared with UBC.

About 2,000 letters of appeal have been sent out for University of Victoria and UBC graduates living in this area.

The money raised will be used for the president's fund, the library, scholarships and general association work.

Losses Cited

Shipyard Vote Known Friday

Voting among union members continues on the latest shipyard strike settlement proposal, while Victoria shipyard cite definite losses of almost $2,000,000 on industrial contracts alone.

The 22 unions are holding meetings to vote secretly on the proposal, by deputy labor minister William Sands.

Results of the vote are to be made known Friday.

URGED TO REJECT

Tuesday, representatives of the unions voted 19-3 to urge union members to reject the proposed settlement.

Management has neither accepted nor rejected the proposal. It calls for a three-year contract, retroactive to Oct. 15, a 12-cent hourly wage increase each year for journeymen, three weeks' vacation after 10 years' service and a sickness and injury indemnity plan.

Yarrows general manager John Wallace said his yard has had some $450,000 worth of industrial contracts cancelled.

Besides that, he said, there is "probably another half-million" which, had it not been for the strike, Yarrows would have bid on and been awarded.

Shipbuilding losses are in addition to this, he said.

LOW BIDDER

VMD president Harold Hubbard said last week his yard has lost $1,500,000 in industrial contracts, including contracts which have been cancelled and contracts on which VMD was low bidder which were not awarded because of the strike.

In Vancouver, Burrard Dry Dock executive vice-president J. W. Wilson said Burrard has lost ship repair work worth between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000, as well as a certain amount of industrial work.

When He Revived Police Were There

VANCOUVER (CP)—Jean Drouin's fainting technique landed him in jail for two years Wednesday.

Drouin admitted in court he forged cheques totalling $800, took them to banks and fainted while cashing them to throw bank staff members off guard.

It worked seven times. The eighth time, suspicious Royal Bank of Canada employees at a downtown branch ran for the telephone to police headquarters instead of going for the smelling salts.

Manslaughter

Man Gets 15 Years In Slaying of Girl

NANAIMO—An Alert Bay man, originally charged with capital murder, was sentenced to 15 years in prison yesterday after his conviction on a reduced charge of manslaughter.

Robert Morley, 42, charged with the death of Linda Wadhams, 10, last Nov. 7, was told by Assize Court Judge J. S. Atkins the fact Morley was drunk when the girl was stabbed saved him from the capital murder conviction.

Mr. Justice Atkins also said he believed there had been some sexual implications in the crime, and there was some hope of rehabilitation for Morley through the long term.

The girl was found wandering naked near her home after a drinking party attended by Morley.

She was wounded in the abdomen and died several days later from internal infection.

During the eight-day trial, 13 crown witnesses testified and more than 40 exhibits were introduced.

World In Brief

VANCOUVER—The new Vancouver Times will begin publication Sept. 1, publisher Val Warren said Wednesday. He also named Peter Inglis of Montreal as editor, and said share sales exceed $835,000 while assets are $327,000.

OAKLAND, Calif.—Ohio housewife Jerrie Mock will complete her round-the-world flight, the first such solo effort by a woman, by flying home from here today. Rival Joan Merriman of California has reached Indonesia.

HAVANA—Frank Emmick, 49, a retired businessman from Rossford, Ohio, was sentenced by a Cuban court to 30 years in prison on charges of being a spy for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. Six Cubans also were jailed.

BRASILIA—Humberto Castello Branco was sworn in as Brazil's new president and promptly listed as a diplomatic break with Cuba.

MIAMI—Lawyer Fernando Penabaz, a Cuban exile, told a national Republican meeting on Latin American policy Cuba has 1,200-mile range missiles on its north coast facing the U.S. They are destined for launching from the ocean floor or from submarines.

Varsity Grows in Research

Grants Underscore Staff, Student Work

By TED GASKELL

Although the University of Victoria is not yet one year old, it is already becoming a recognized centre for student and staff research projects affecting both community and purely scientific fields.

This was underscored yesterday by the announcement of $36,500 in National Research Council for work by professors in three science departments.

A grant of $20,000 goes to the biology department to purchase equipment and pay assistants for Dr. David Ballantyne, Dr. Gordon Fields, Dr. Arthur Fontaine, Dr. Edwin Hagmeier, Dr. John M. Owen, and Dr. Lynwood Smith for research into a variety of things including algae buds, starfish, squid and the Douglas fir.

In addition, the council has assigned a post-doctoral research fellowship to the biology department and Dr. J. D. Woodley of Oxford University will come to Victoria to continue his studies under Dr. Arthur W. Fontaine.

CHEMISTRY BOOSTED

The chemistry department receives $2,000 for work to be done by Dr. S. A. Ryce, Dr. A. D. Kirk, Dr. Harry Lynton, Dr. N. S. Isaacs and Dr. F. P. Robinson. Last year this department received only $7,500 in grants.

To the physics department for work involving laser beams and cosmic rays, the council has made a grant of $14,500. This will further research of Dr. R. M. Pearce working with G. R. Mason, and of Dr. Gerhard Freidmann.

STUDENTS BUSY, TOO

But while the professors are delving into academic fields, the science students themselves are busy with even more practical projects involving the forests, lakes, rivers and wild life in the district, and in solving local industrial problems.

One project of vital importance to a local industry is that being done by third-year chemistry student William Hubbard, who is studying the ageing in cut flowers, work which was started at the request of local growers.

Other work planned at the university, in conjunction with UBC, is research into what can be grown on Vancouver Island using tallings, a problem of the fish and game branch of the conservation department.

Donald Walde is studying the relationship between the number of grouse shot in the fall to the breeding conditions in the preceding spring and important information on hatchling conditions has been obtained.

FOOD FOR FISH

Claude Buglar and Darcy Goyette teamed up to study productivity of plankton and marine life at Oak Bay, which will produce important information on the amount of food for fish.

Michael Corry is working on spawning conditions in Goldstream River, the survival of fry and the number of salmon moving upstream.

LAKES STUDIED

Local fishermen will be interested in the findings of David Rimmer, Gerald Bowes, Brian Davies and Michael Bassett who are studying the growth rate of fish in Douglas and Durrance Lakes.

Working with the fish and game branch on the abundance, movement and kind of wild fowl on the Saanich Peninsula are Nick Bussanich, Conrad Reifel, Ann Thompson and John Youson.

Study of the forests of the Saanich Peninsula, basic to future studies involving game and conservation, is being undertaken by Gordon Foster, Alister MacDonald, Brian Winsby and Joan Hett.

Finals Start At Varsity

Final examinations at the University of Victoria start officially today.

The Baccalaureate Service for graduates will be held Sunday, May 24. Convocation and the graduation ball will be Monday, May 25.

Examinations end May 1, when the final general appeal event of the year, the Soph Dance, takes place.

Dockyard Man Wins $495

A cigar-shaped sonar target and deep water marker has won a $495 cash award for Roy Stranix, 1981 Colwood Crescent, a supervisor at HMC Dockyard.

In its first year, the buoy has saved the navy $11,656.

Mainland Gas Up Two Cents

Gasoline prices on the Lower Mainland jumped two cents yesterday and last night were the same as Victoria prices.

Major oil company service stations checked in Victoria reported regular gas selling at 29.9 and premium gas at 44.9 a gallon with no rise in sight.

Major oil companies on the mainland said the move was an attempt to raise "extremely depressed" prices.

The increase came as a British Columbia royal commission on gasoline prices began a series of hearings at Kelowna. Frequent complaints to the commission from Interior communities have been that Lower Mainland gasoline prices are far lower than those in other parts of B.C.

IMPERIAL OIL
First move to boost prices came from Imperial Oil. Other companies followed suit, bringing the price of regular gas to 39.9 cents a gallon and premium grade to 44.9 cents.

The increases were effective from Vancouver to Chilliwack.

Some 40 independent outlets were holding to their price of 35.9 to 36.9 cents for regular gasoline, but spokesmen said they too would likely go along with the general increase by brand dealers.

FLUCTUATIONS
A statement issued by Imperial said there have been "a number of price fluctuations over the past six months and with strong, competitive supply pressures, prices have been at low levels in this market. Lately there have been indications of firming in the market, and Imperial Oil's recent move is in that direction."

Sell Your Car, Walk Businessmen Warned

LONDON (AP)—A heart specialist told business executives Wednesday to sell their cars, take to walking and go easy on the liquor.

Dr. William Evans, consulting physician at the London Hospital, the National Heart Hospital and the Institute of Cardiology, gave this advice to a health conference of industrial executives.

"Sell your car, take to walking; acquire a dog, one that will pull powerfully at the leash; dismiss the gardener and do it yourself; take to horse-riding, turn to golf and dispense with the caddy."

Fishing Boom Coming Soon

Benefits in fish production are expected to be felt immediately along the Big Qualicum River now the federal fisheries department has established full flow and temperature control.

Salmon fry swimming down the river to enter the sea are trapped and counted at fence set across the river as part of a $1,300,000 experimental project to increase production.

Fisheries biologists say they are encouraged by hatch and survival of chum, spring and pink salmon eggs under ideal conditions this past winter.

RAF Day

Fliers Think Back

Flying veterans of both world wars were guests last night at a special gathering held by the Vancouver Island Air Force Officers' Association to mark the 40th anniversary of the formation of the Royal Air Force.

The event was held in the RCAF's Victoria headquarters at 1212 Quadra.

The many guests, all retired and settled on Vancouver Island, included former RAF, RCAF and RCAF who took part in the first night bombing, the first air submarine raids and the first Atlantic crossings.

Among them was Toronto-born Emerson Smith, who shot down Hermann Goering, one of the aces of Baron Manfred von Richthofen's Flying Circus, Oct. 17, 1917—but not fatally.

Garden Notes

Leave 'Em Alone!

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRIS

One of the most important lessons the novice gardener must learn is not to fuss unduly over newly planted shrubs, trees, perennial flowers and lawns. These plants are rather like the small child subjected to too much mothering—they never do quite as well in life as those which have been treated to a little wholesome neglect.

If the planting site has been selected intelligently and the ground properly prepared, and if the plant has been put in correctly, there isn't very much more you can do for it until it has settled down in its new environment. In fact, considerable damage can be done by trying to push the plant along.

The time to stock the soil with long-lasting and slow-acting nutrients, the time to ensure against dryness at the roots, the time to improve the natural soil texture is before planting, not after. And in the case of new lawns, whether started from sod or seed, the grass will prosper best if its care is limited to conscientious and frequent mowing during its first summer.

The use of weed killers and forcing fertilizers will hinder rather than help the young grasses in their effort to become established. There shouldn't be any need for either 2, 4-D or fertilizer during the first summer if the site was prepared with proper care.

Any perennial plant—and this includes trees, shrubs and lawn grasses—needs time to adjust to its new home before it can forge ahead. It must develop a vigorous root system, happily "married" to the soil, before it can put on much in the way of topgrowth, so forcing fertilizers are more likely to be a hindrance rather than a help in the early stages, since they tend to push ahead the growth of leaf and stem at the expense of root development—topgrowth which cannot be supported by inadequate roots.

The newly planted tree or flowering shrub should have a whole year of growth before any stimulants are needed. Don't expect too much in the way of above-ground performance during this twelve-month period—the important growth is going on down below the soil surface, and the topgrowth will keep ahead in the plant's own good time.

Every plant suffers mutilation, injury and shock to some extent when it is planted or transplanted, no matter how carefully the job is done. Tiny invisible root hairs are torn and broken, and these are the "mouths" through which the plant must take in food and water. These root hairs must be regrown before new growth can commence, and in the meantime the plant lives upon nutrients stored in its tissues, like a hibernating bear.

Until the plant grows itself a new set of feeding roots, the amount of topgrowth that can be sustained is severely limited. This is why a good gardener prunes his trees and shrubs drastically during transplanting—to reduce the drain on the root system. This is why evergreens so often shed their leaves or needles after being transplanted. Far from being abnormal or bad, this leaf-shedding is just the plant's way of balancing its budget—of adjusting its moisture expenditure to its moisture income.

The time to think about feeding new plants is after new growth starts in the leaves and shoot tips. Until then, all they need is firm anchorage, protection against extremes of wetness or dryness, and freedom from the nagging attentions of their owners.

JOHN CROSBY Yearns for Brave Man

Wanted: A Beatle-Hater

LONDON — I went to a cocktail party the other night where one of the other guests was a Beatle. Ringo, I believe. The fellow with hair on his forehead. Well, they all have that, don't they? Anyhow, to acquire one Beatle is a large score.

The Beatles are the hottest property in England, socially. When you're planning a party anywhere in England, the first name you write down is Beatles. Naturally, you invite all four of them. Naturally, they don't all come.

In fact, if you get one, you get a medal. If you wangle two, you jump 22 lines in Debut. You're moved up above the salt, and that directorship you were angling for in the city is yours. Automatically.

If you get three Beatles, wow! You land on all the front pages, elbowing aside all those dull stories about Cyprus and Viet Nam and the British election.

If you get all four Beatles—well, no one has ever done that. If someone ever does, which is extremely doubtful, the whole machine lights up red and plays Rule, Britannia. You automatically win the game and your social score is tripled.

That's England right now. There's been a bit of a social revolution. The English don't usually go potty over people that way. Any people. They've been around a long time. They've seen kings, conquerors (that William fellow, you know), Shakespeare, Oscar Wilde, come and go. They usually take people pretty calmly.

Then the Beatles. I can't understand it. But I'm trying.

Everyone's thinking has had to be substantially modified. I have been in England during this whole Beatle madness, right from the beginning when, if someone said Beatles, you'd say, "Who?" to right now when the prime minister alips casual references to the Beatles in his campaign speeches.

The Beatles are not only very hot, socially, but No. 1 conversation-wise. Here, you'd better be careful. England has always been a nation of free speech, unlike some countries I could mention which only think they are.

Anything goes here, opinion-wise. You can roundly denounce the Queen of England or the Catholic Church or the Church of England, talk up a spirited defence of homosexuality or Hitler, denounce motherhood, England, anything. They don't care.

Then came the Beatles. The Beatles are sacred. There is a certain very narrow range of opinion you must harbor about the Beatles or you'll be drawn and quartered. Or, much worse, asked to resign from your clubs.

In the first place, they're nice guys. You must like them. I mean as people, not necessarily as singers. Somehow their singing, which is what started the whole thing, has got lost. One doesn't discuss that.

One discusses the Beatles as human beings, as great thinkers, as philosophers, as personalities—never their act. You adore the act. That goes without saying. But as conversation material, no. You discussed that last year, not this year.

I'm a bit fed up. Conversation-wise, I think the Beatles are a narrow subject. I mean, after you say, "What nice young men they are!" The extraordinary thing is how they don't take themselves seriously. Everyone nods brightly and agrees with you. That's the sticky part, everyone agrees.

Then you all agree that there hasn't been humility like this since early in the 13th century. But then where do you go?

Still, this is a nation of rugged individualists and ferocious eccentricity. Somewhere in England lives a fierce Englishman who loathes the Beatles, hates their singing, and them personally.

At least, I think so or we'll all lose our sanity. Somebody has got to start the ball rolling the other way. Somebody has got to have the strength to walk into a roomful of people and say, "I hate the Beatles, individually and collectively."

A hush will fall all over England. The heavens will light up bright red. The planet will stand still. But I think we'll all come out of it better and truer and stronger and healthier.

Don't look at me. I'm too young to die. I think one of the older fellows ought to start things off. Bertrand Russell, maybe. He's 91.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Carpetbaggers Hailed

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—George Peppard discovered Martha Hyer at the Denver premiere of The Carpetbaggers. Joe Levine's movie received raves... the sequel, Nevada Smith, will star Steve McQueen, as the Texas cowboy who became a movie star... Anne Bancroft, having done her duty at the Oscar awards, is off to the Cannes film festival where her picture, The Pumpkin Eater, is the British entry.

Maureen O'Sullivan's beautiful blonde daughter Mia is off to the races with her film career. In addition to taking over for Britt Ekland in Guns of Batash, Mia has been offered the lead in Rapture in My Rags. The only hitch is, she has a contract for the TV series of Peyton Place, which has been bought for next season by ABC. But if she can star in Rags she will.

The same London reviewers who adored Sam Branson's Fall of The Roman Empire, did not care too much for The Chalk Garden with Hayley Mills, which I predict will have a big success. Hayley, by the way, gets a title change for her next picture. It was called Satan. It is now The Truth About Spring. That's better.

Jeanette MacDonald writes me that she has completely recovered from the serious surgery which kept her in hospital for two and a half months, and she thanks all the friends and fans who wrote to her. I would like to see her back on the screen again. She has always been very popular.

Elizabeth Taylor's "minaret" hair style, about a foot high with long curls down her back, might start a new fashion. But for the sake of people in theatres who sit behind the high hair-dos, I hope not. It was tough enough with the bouffant style. Elizabeth has shed weight and looks gorgeous again.

A telephone call from Maxine Andrews: "We're doing a new album of the top 12 western tunes," she informed me. The album have worked harmoniously since, "our big night in 1964. Early in '56 we laughed the whole thing off. We had thought we would write our life story, but decided against it, and put the whole thing in a deep, dark closet."

Leslie Caron will keep the children with her in Beverly Hills. Too bad about her marriage to Peter Hall breaking up. This has to be the reason why she accepted two films here, or the break-up could be because of the films. In any case it's a great pity because they were very happy in their marriage until now.

Beware Mediocrity

Warns DR. STUART ROSENBERG

There's nothing as permanent in the world as change. The 20th century is no different in that respect from the eras that preceded us. With one exception: The rapidity of the changes.

It used to take generations before anything new could penetrate human living. Now, every few years, inventions and discoveries occur with such quickening pace that the face of the earth changes often within a single lifetime.

But the naked eye sees only the obvious changes. Travel, communication, and the like—radio, television, jet planes and the telephone. The more important changes we can't see as easily.

These are the changes in our values, the changes in our attitudes and points of view, in what we make important or deem unimportant.

What was once dear and precious is now considered trivial or, at best, optional. What was once cheap and perhaps even vulgar is now thought to be important and worthwhile.

We have moved, in our time, from morals to morals. We have no special code of conduct of our own. We just want to keep up our acceptance on the part of others—just keep up the morale!

The result is that we develop standards which are no standards, which change with the passing fancy and the passing fad.

We flit and are whisked about from pillar to post. We lack backbone. Too often we are only wishbone.

Our new God is "self-expression." But what are we expressing? The finest, the noblest, the best that is in us? Or is self-expression for many an excuse for vulgarity, greed, and excessive lust?

The ancient world used the interesting example of the charioteer and his horses. Looking up the horses in the stable they called inhibition. But setting them loose so that they could run wild and become a menace they labelled self-expression. Harnessing the horses in a chariot, putting them to some useful task, they called self-control.

We are in peril of being reduced to mediocrity. We like what everybody likes and dislike what everybody else dislikes. We go where everybody else goes and say what everybody says. We are even dangerously close to thinking what everyone else is thinking.

To be redeemed from mediocrity, we need to stand aside from the crowd, to know what we stand for, and what we won't stand for.

We need to develop codes of our own that reflect our deepest and our finest. We need the moral courage to protest and to dissent from the majority when the majority has succumbed to error and vulgarity.

Yes, we need to learn self-expression. But first, we must ask the deeper question: What kind of self are we really expressing?

Neighborhood Pelted By 3,000 Golf Balls

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI)—A group of residents backed their complaint with evidence in an appearance before the board of supervisors to protest the operation of a golf driving range. They logged in a 20-gallon garbage can full of golf balls (about 3,000) which they said had pelted their neighborhood in the past year.

Navy children learn to be playground supervisors

Naden Gym Bursting At the Seams

HMCS Naden gymnasium is bursting at the seams with activity these days.

A recent typical week saw 4,500 naval personnel, dependents and members of other groups taking part in some type of recreational activity in the gym or swimming pool.

JUNIOR OLYMPIC
In addition to the usual navy physical training classes during working hours, weekly evening events include badminton, a junior Olympic track program, women's PT classes, dependents' gymnastics and boxing. Special events in the swimming pool include Girl Guide, Scout, Sea Cadet, Cub and Esquimalt High School classes as well as adult and children remedial group and dependent children's classes.

During Easter recess a special junior leadership course for playground supervisors in the proposed children's recreation program in Belmont Park this summer was attended by more than 30 enthusiastic teen-agers.

Basic first aid, water safety and the duties and responsibilities of leadership were stressed as well as rules of each game and activity.

Cement Mixer Motor

Four Piggy Banks In Thieves' Haul

The motor from a cement mixer and the contents of four piggy banks were among the loot taken in various thefts in Greater Victoria overnight Tuesday.

City police said a thief or thieves entered the house of F. P. Lewis, 329 Windermere, and took from the top of the refrigerator four children's piggy banks believed to contain a total of more than $100.

LIQUOR BOTTLE
Also taken were a $5 bill and some $20 from church envelopes in a bedroom drawer. A bottle of liquor was also taken. The piggy banks were recovered empty near a nearby house.

City police were told the motor had been removed by thieves from a six-cubic-foot cement mixer parked outside a building company lot.

CHANGE MACHINE
Thieves broke open a change machine at the coin-operated laundry at the Fairfield shopping centre. About $12 was believed to have been in the machine and $3.20 of this was found lying around the floor.

Thieves broke into Betty's Cafe, 815 Government, the Russ Hay Bicycle Shop, 1320 Government, and Coast Sewing Machine and Service, 816 Fort.

ABOUT 45 CENTS
Nothing was reported missing at the bicycle shop and about 45 cents was taken from the sewing machine shop.

Papers Sold Without Permit

MONTREAL (CP) — Nine youths have been arrested since Sunday for selling the separatist French-language newspaper Quebec Libre on street corners without a city permit.

Most were charged with selling the papers without a permit. Maximum penalty for the offence is a $40 fine.

NEED NEW HOMES
Norway's housing director estimates the country will need about 1,250,000 new dwelling units by 1970.

Problem of Retarded 'Out of Hiding'

A Toronto expert said here this week Canadians are literally bringing the problem of mental retardation "out of hiding" to the mutual benefit of thousands of children and their families.

Dr. G. A. Roher, executive director of the Canadian Association for Retarded Children, said that even 15 years ago, retarded children were hidden away from public view by well-meaning parents, who were actually adding to their children's hardship.

He said he was particularly impressed with the work of the Greater Victoria Association for the Retarded and its work with pre-school children.

"It's at this age when we can do the most good," Dr. Roher said, "both in training the children and educating the parents in what they can do."

He said a general public awareness was helping but there was "still a long way to go."

At one time, researchers felt little could be done for those afflicted, and considered research fruitless. "Now they realize there is a tremendous challenge."

Make up your mind slowly. Take a full 60 seconds.

A full minute may be longer than you ordinarily take over one sip of whisky.

Take that long with Time. The whisky in the hourglass bottle gives you a lot to think about.

The taste is light, warm, smooth. You'll find you have never known a rye like this.

Think about the taste of this gentle whisky. Think about the taste of the whisky you usually buy. Think about how they compare.

It takes a long time to change a man's mind about whiskies.

All we ask is one minute.

Her Royal Highness travelled in an aircraft of the Queen's Flight.

Annual Provincial IODE Meeting Shows Emphasis on Education

The sum of $42,622 and 6,913 hours of voluntary work were donated by the Provincial IODE's Services At Home and Abroad, it was reported yesterday at the 51st annual meeting in the Empress Hotel.

Equipment was donated to hospitals and hospital chapels, 61 crates of clothing were sent overseas and 14 food parcels were given to Canadian veterans overseas, said Mrs. C. G. Welbourne, secretary.

Education secretary Mrs. Carlton Collard, Vancouver, indicated the provincial IODE this past year had given 25 scholarships to the value of $2,770, bursaries valuing $7,587 and prizes for a total of $11,159.

Nineteen of 37 chapters undertook special educational work which included music festival trophies, donations to library funds, to kindergartens, handicapped and retarded. Purchase of hand equipment and symphony tickets were included as well as donations to students chosen to represent Canada in Africa and a donation to vocalist in the Elgar Choir.

Treasurer Mrs. R. B. Roach, New Westminster, reported total receipts of $72,491 and disbursements of $67,145. The Jessie R. Burke memorial cancer fund shows a balance of $13,266 and the Emerson House Society $12,420.

Assistant educational secretary, Mrs. C. W. Smith, Vancouver, showed $4,442 spent on schools in Canada, most of them in isolated areas. Another $84 was spent on a school in the West Indies.

Literature and refills were supplied along with pictures, magazine subscriptions, flags, books and prizes.

Organizing secretary Mrs. G. H. Tresidder told her audience that British Columbia has five municipal chapters and 93 primary chapters, with a total membership of 2,053.

Two new chapters, she said, had received their charters. They were the Kwantlen chapter in Surrey and the Mount Crown chapter in West Vancouver.

Mrs. Agnes Phipps, Echoes secretary, reported a total of 2,160 Echoes subscriptions, of which 123 were gifts.

During her year in office as provincial president of the IODE, Mrs. R. F. Shortreed said she has been in touch with people from many lands and through this she has become more and more thankful she lives in Canada.

She emphasized that a Canadian is a very fortunate person and went on to say Canadians live in a country just old enough to have some sense of the history behind it and young enough to have a glorious future ahead of it.

"We may not be the world's richest country in terms of dollars and cents, but we certainly have the potential to become the richest," she said.

EQUAL GREECE

In referring to culture and polish, which some Canadians seem to feel is lacking, Mrs. Shortreed said "If we go about it the right way, drawing from the culture of all the ethnic groups which make up this country our civilization can equal that of ancient Greece."

She said it made her furious when some people say in a semi-apologetic tone they are Canadian. "Fortunately these people are few," she said.

She went on to enlarge what it means to be a Canadian pointing out that Canada's basic freedoms have not been laid down by law but by usage. "They have become an integral part of our daily lives and are accepted as though they were laws."

"These include the freedom of speech, freedom of worship, freedom of choice of political parties and freedom of movement—a freedom we should not take for granted," she said. "A Canadian also enjoys freedom from arrest, except for just cause; freedom to buy and own property, freedom of the press and freedom of enterprise," she continued.

Mrs. Shortreed pointed out the only thing a Canadian lacks "is a distinctive Canadian flag."

"I would like to point out that the Nation of Canada should have its own flag, has gone on record as being in favor of the Canadian Red Ensign as Canada's national flag."

Another Berlin Chic ensemble is this nap tweed coat-dress for business and pleasure.

'Berlin Chic'

WEST BERLIN (DaD)—West Berlin fashion houses recently sent some of their loveliest creations to demonstrate "Berlin Chic" in 10 major West German cities. This new way of "making contacts" has proven to be extremely effective as only a few know that every third dress sold in West Germany was made in West Berlin. With its 350 clothing manufacturers and roughly 50,000 employees, West Berlin's ladies' clothing industry is today the largest production centre in this field on the European continent. More than 200,000,000 dresses, suits, coats, skirts, blouses and house coats with a production value of nearly one billion DM are made here each year.

Four-Year-Old Chess Whiz

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Zuriko Sopia is only four years old. But he already can hold his own at chess, and often defeats grown-ups.

Zuriko, youngest of five sons of a collective farmer in the little Georgian town of Gali, learned to play by watching his brothers.

One day, one of them made a wrong move with a knight. His opponent was about to go on with the game when little Zuriko pointed out the mistake. The brothers looked at each other and decided to put him to the test.

"Come on then, Zuriko, set the board," they said.

The little hands moved slowly across the board, carefully putting all the pieces in their right positions. Then the brothers set him a few elementary problems. After a little thought, he solved them all.

From then on young Zuriko became his brothers' chief opponent. The family's acknowledged chess champion, 25-year-old Nuguri, began to teach him the theory of the game.

Then a well-known Georgian newspaper man from Tbilisi, also a keen chess player, visited Gali. A match was arranged with Zuriko. The boy won.

The young prodigy is not Gali's only four-year-old chess expert. Karmela Oboladze, daughter of a local schoolmaster, rivalled young Zuriko at a chess festival at Sukhumi in the autumn of 1963. Mikhail Botvinnik, former world chess champion, heard about the two small experts and asked their parents to bring them to the festival.

That Man in the Kitchen

Asparagus Made Popular By Louis XIV of France

By RANL FITZGERALD

Fresh asparagus is back on the market—the price is high but before we know it we will be able to buy local produce and really indulge in asparagus at its best. Asparagus came into vogue in France during the reign of Louis XIV, thanks to Monsieur Quintinie, the fabulous chef who created so many dishes and sauces for his gourmet king. Monsieur Quintinie was the first to use asparagus beds and was thus able to supply asparagus for the royal table on a year-round basis.

The principles involved in the preparation of asparagus are few and simple, and I think the French method is by far the best to follow. The asparagus must be peeled, tied into bundles and plunged into a very large kettle of rapidly boiling water. It should be boiled slowly until it is tender and drained immediately. Remember that peeled asparagus will cook more rapidly than when cooked unpeeled, and also that the whole of the stem is completely edible, and usually is of a much better color. The amount of salt used in cooking should be 1½ teaspoons of salt to each quart of water. The cooking time runs from 10 to 15 minutes depending on the thickness of the stems.

At its best I think asparagus is appreciated most of all when served with lemon butter and here is the recipe:

LEMON BUTTER

Three-quarters cup butter; finely-grated rind of one lemon; salt and pepper to taste.

Blend the lemon rind with the softened butter, season with salt and pepper. Chill well and serve with hot asparagus.

One rule of thumb when determining the amount of sauce to serve is to allow 4 tablespoons of sauce per person. A welcome change from Sauce Hollandaise is Sauce Mouseline, which is wonderful with asparagus and here is the recipe:

SAUCE MOUSELINE

Cup and one-half Hollandaise Sauce; ½ cup of whipping cream, well whipped.

Add the whipped cream to the Hollandaise Sauce just before serving.

Another variation on the Hollandaise Sauce theme is to include one tablespoon of orange juice when mixing the sauce and then add 2 tablespoons of orange juice and the grated rind of one orange just before serving.

With hot asparagus serve a good bottle of Grave or Pouilly-Fuissé—the combination is tremendous.

Bon appetit!

Her Life Devoted To Work of Union

By TRUDY KEMP

Although the end of December of this year will bring to a close her six-year term of office as Dominion president of the Mothers' Union, it is unlikely Mrs. A. E. O. Anderson of Ottawa will be content to sit back and rest on her laurels.

Since Monday evening of this week members of the various Mothers' Unions in the Diocese of British Columbia for the Anglican Church, have been meeting and listening to their president—a woman who has devoted most of her life to the work of the Union.

Her deep and sincere interest in this work dates back to the early days of her marriage to the late Rev. Anderson, rector of the Church of Ascension in Ottawa until his death in 1902.

Mrs. Anderson was born in Kent, England, and her husband was born in Smith Falls, Ont. He received his theological training in England and was rector in Deal, Kent, before returning to Canada in 1950 to take over as rector of St. Peter's Church in Ottawa.

When the Andersons first moved to Ottawa they started a branch of the Mothers' Union amongst the young mothers in the church.

Mrs. Anderson, in describing the aims and interests of the Mothers' Union, pointed out it is a society within the Anglican Church which exists to maintain and to strengthen family life.

She said it stands for the Christian principles of marriage, the Christian upbringing of children and Christian living and seeks to establish Christian homes throughout the world.

Membership is open to married women who have been baptized and undertake to bring their babies to baptism, and who accept the teaching contained in the Apostles' Creed.

The members promise to uphold the sanctity of marriage; to awaken in all mothers a sense of their great responsibility in the training of their boys and girls—the fathers and mothers of the future; to organize in every place a band of mothers who will unite in prayer and set a good example to their families.

The first Mothers' Union was started in 1876 in a country rectory in Hampshire, England. Mrs. Mary Sumner, the rector's wife, held her first meeting for young mothers of the parish. Her purpose was to teach them the spiritual value of widowhood and motherhood, the great responsibility of parents for their children and the power of prayer and example.

From this small beginning the Mothers' Union grew rapidly. It soon spread through England and Wales to Scotland and Ireland. Within a few years it had crossed the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans and been established in Canada and New Zealand.

Now it has a total membership of more than half a million members, 14,987 branches and over 3,000 Young Wives' Groups.

Mrs. Anderson mentioned that the first branch in Canada was organized in London, Ont., in 1886 at Cronyn Memorial Church. There are now about 3,000 active members.

Prior to becoming national president, Mrs. Anderson served as diocesan president for six years in Ottawa. Her plans for the future are not definite but what with her years of experience in the Union, coupled with her teaching background—she was a teacher before her marriage—it is pretty certain her services and her valuable advice will be called upon many times.

After she leaves Vancouver Island, Friday afternoon, Mrs. Anderson's schedule calls for a weekend stopover in Vancouver, with her next call at Fernie on Tuesday, and from there to Edmonton on Wednesday. She is slated to go to Niagara in May, followed by a trip to Nova Scotia in June.

Accompanying Mrs. Anderson on her west coast trip is Mrs. H. C. Hutchison of Winnipeg, president-elect. She will assume her duties of office for three-year term in January, 1963.

Born in Weyburn, Sask., Mrs. Hutchison is the wife of a doctor and the mother of two boys and a girl. Her mother, Mrs. Leo Varley, was a former national president of the Mothers' Union and Mrs. Hutchison became active in it in 1940 shortly after her marriage. At the time she was living in the Barbados, West Indies.

Several years ago, on the request of Bishop Donald Marsh, Mrs. Hutchison recorded some talks on tape, explaining the aims and work of the Mothers' Union and how it would help in the Church of the Arctic. These were later translated for the Eskimos.

The president-elect is also active in volunteer hospital work in her home city. Seven years ago she was instrumental in introducing the Candystraps at Grace Hospital in Winnipeg. This organization, made up of girls between 14 and 17 years of age doing hospital volunteer work, was one of the first to be started in Canada.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: A letter which appeared in your column recently hit home. I refer to the woman whose best friend's husband made a pass at her. Last week I had the same revolting experience for the second time.

A "buddy" of my husband's rang the doorbell at midnight. He said he had been visiting in the neighborhood and his car door was jammed. He asked if my husband could help him. The rat knew that my husband was out of town.

Before I could say "Drop Dead" he was inside the house—grabbing me. I let him know he had the wrong number. I later told my husband but I refused to name the fellow. He was furious—but not because he wanted to punch the guy in the nose. He said gallantly, "I'd give anything to know who the house is. I'd like to go to his house and pull the same thing on his wife."

Dear Ann: Great little group you're running around with—including your husband. One of the comforting aspects of this column is that it makes some women feel lucky if their husbands only fall asleep in front of the TV or leave wet towels on the bathroom floor.

Dear Ann Landers: Please give me your opinion of parents who will not allow a 13½-year-old son to be left alone for the evening—even when they go only four doors away?

I am this boy's 17-year-old sister. Last night I had to cancel a date because I had to babysit with my brother. Am, this kid is old enough to be a baby-sitter. Please print your opinion. —VANCOUVER GIRL.

Dear Girl: Unless your brother is retarded or physically ill he should not need a sitter. The boy should be in high school within a year. If he has not been left alone for an evening by then your parents will have an emotional cripple on their hands.

Researcher Says:

Goal: Torpedo for Cancer

Scientists may someday develop a cancer treatment which—like a homing torpedo—finds its way to cancer cells and destroys them, says an expert in the field.

Dr. J. W. Jull, associate professor at the University of B.C.'s Cancer Research Centre, yesterday briefed 54 members of Greater Victoria's Conquer Cancer Campaign committee on progress being made against the disease.

Dr. Jull has spent the past 15 years on cancer research and has produced about 30 publications on the subject.

He told the committee at the Union Club yesterday that cancer research today is at the place where development of the atom bomb was in the year 1932.

A lot of theory and research went into development of the atom bomb and "nobody knew the first atom bomb was a success until it went off."

The same thing applies to cancer research and how soon effective therapy is found "will depend upon the amount of effort put into it," he said.

Money collected here this month may help speed this process.

Greater Victoria's goal for 1964 is $35,000, and donations should be sent to Conquer Cancer Campaign, R. L. Patton, treasurer, 530 Broughton Street, Victoria, B.C.

Dr. Jull's extensive experiments have suggested that a steroid hormone can be used to carry certain chemical groupings to cancerous areas of the body.

GUIDE CHEMICALS

The steroid hormone would guide the chemicals to a specific tissue where the chemicals would then destroy the cancer cells.

But he stressed that his findings have yet to be corroborated.

"I should emphasize that what I have been saying is to a large extent speculative and remains to be shown to be practicable," he told the Conquer Cancer committee.

"Even if it is proved to be absolutely correct, then we wouldn't have cured all forms of cancer by any means."

Those Most Affected Being Questioned About Bilingualism

OTTAWA (CP) — The most ambitious public opinion poll yet attempted on the highly-charged subjects of bilingualism is being launched by the Civil Service Federation of Canada.

The people being polled—about 75,000 federal civil servants affiliated with the federation—likely will be those Canadians most directly affected by the recommendations of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism.

The federation this week is sending out a detailed, bilingual questionnaire to all its members and asking them to return their confidential unsigned replies by May 15.

The filled-in questionnaires will be fed into an electronic brain which will take up to two months to analyze the results. The majority views that emerge will shape in great part the federation's projected brief to the royal commission.

FIRST TIME

Federation officials said Wednesday it is the first time their group, largest of those representing federal employees, has attempted an opinion survey on this scale.

There are 618 questions, dealing with the person's own background and his attitudes to various bicultural issues.

Elected at yesterday's session of the Anglican Synod of B.C. was the following executive committee for 1964-65:

Clerical: Rev. Canon G. H. Greenhalgh, Nanaimo; Rev. Canon C. H. Butler, Victoria; Rev. C. E. Lonsdale, Comox; Ven. R. B. Horsfield, Lake Cowichan; Rev. Canon F. C. Vaughan-Birch, Sidney.

Lay: Dr. F. T. Fairley, R. W. Phipps, H. L. Henderson, Victoria; W. E. Mantle, Courtenay; Dr. G. C. Reynolds, Port Alberni.

Poisoned Toast Offered To Wife for Breakfast

LONDON (UPI)—A man pleaded guilty at Old Bailey criminal court Wednesday to attempted murder by spreading rat poison on his wife's breakfast toast.

Stanley Jordan, 44, a baker, was put on three years' probation and sent to a mental hospital.

Tom Jones Junket

CALGARY (UPI)—A Tom Jones junket was being organized here to enable Albertans to view the Oscar-winning motion picture in British Columbia.

Tom Jones was named the best motion picture of the year at Monday night's Academy Award presentations.

It was banned in Alberta and Saskatchewan by the provincial censorship boards unless a number of scenes were cut.

United Artists, distributors of the film, refused to let anyone cut the movie adaptation of Henry Fielding's 18th century classic.

The only persons to view the film in Alberta were Social Credit members of the legislature who were tendered a private screening in Edmonton.

The Calgary Albertan newspaper was planning a bus trip —probably to Golden, B.C., Sunday, April 26—to view the film. Entertainment columnist Mort Van Ostrand, who is organizing the junket, said arrangements were not final. He expected at least 200 to make the journey.

One guest invitation will be sent—to Col P. J. Fleming, Alberta's chief censor.

Proposed Race Route

Epic Canoe Race Would Traverse Half Continent

By ARCH MACKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP)—Efforts to sell the idea of the longest canoe race in the world to Canada's 1967 birthday planners are to be made this year.

The plan is to have 50 two-man teams of paddlers start out from Edmonton Monday, May 22, 1967. If all goes scheduled, the survivors would reach St. Helen's Island at Montreal 103 days later on Sept. 2. Prize money might be as much as $100,000.

En route the entrants would traverse by paddle and portage the historic route originally traced by Samuel de Champlain in 1615, Pierre Radisson in 1661 and others in later years, including Henry Kelsey in 1801-02 and Sir Alexander Mackenzie.

ALL-CANADIAN

It was the all-Canadian route for the fur traders who first provided the linkage between regions that were to become the Canadian nation.

The idea was first suggested by Gene Rheame, Progressive Conservative MP for the Northwest Territories. He turned it over to two Flin Flon, Man., men with experience in handling that northern community's annual Gold Rush Canoe Derby which is run in three 50-mile sprints.

WON'T BE NON-STOP

Mr. Rheame's brother Jim and Norm Tyson have worked out suggestions for running, financing and planning the event. After further discussions with them, Mr. Rheame then hopes to submit a firm proposal to John Flaher, commissioner of the Centennial administration.

Some features of the draft planning to date:

—Mr. Rheame says he has had responses from some canoe clubs but, more important in his view at this stage, a promising reaction from people who seem to like the idea.

50 TEAMS

—The entrants would be limited to 50 two-man teams, perhaps five from each province wearing provincial colors.

—The proposed course would have to be examined in detail and covered by race officials in 1965. It follows the North Saskatchewan River from Edmonton to Manitoba and then continues downstream touching Lake Winnipegosis, Lake Manitoba, the Assiniboine River, Red River, Lake Winnipeg, Winnipeg River and eastward via lakes and rivers to Lake Superior, Lake Huron, the French River and then the Ottawa River at Mattawa, Ont.

—The race would be run on a day-by-day basis with the winning team being the one holding the fastest accumulated time and the schedule tied to centennial celebrations along the way.

SUGGEST LOTTERY

An added feature might be a mobile exhibit of early exploration and fur-trade relics or displays accompanying the racers at least part of the way.

A lottery is suggested as a way of financing the cost, amounting to perhaps $1,000,000. However, this would require an amendment to the Criminal Code and it seems unlikely at this time.

Other possible means of financing are federal-provincial-municipal grants, a federal part of the race by commercial sponsors.

Files Never Forget

VANCOUVER — Fingerprint files, like elephants, never forget. So Mrs. Violet Campbell, 65, faces two police charges instead of one.

Police checked the files after she was charged with obtaining a $217 bank loan last January by making a false statement. Now she's charged with obtaining $125 by false pretences in 1953; a bench warrant had been out for her since she failed to show up in court 25 years ago next May 1.

CHICAGO — William Stratton, 50, governor of Illinois from 1952 to 1960, was indicted on charges of evading nearly $47,000 in income taxes during his last four years in office. His "boy wonder" rise in politics—he was a congressman at 25—was blunted in 1956 by a $1,500,000 embezzlement scandal involving state auditor Orrville Hodge.

LAS VEGAS — Singer Pearl Bailey used the Flamingo Hotel for $150,000 for shock and injury after cutting a foot on broken glass in a hotel walkway during a singing engagement.

WASHINGTON — A bit of history involving some big names was disclosed by South Carolina Democratic Rep. W. J. B. Dorn. He said Douglas MacArthur urged Dwight Eisenhower late in 1952 to issue as his first act as president a guarantee to Josef Stalin that Germany and Japan would remain disarmed and neutral, if Stalin abandoned the cold war. John Foster Dulles squelched the idea.

LOS ANGELES — "Birdman of Alcatraz" Robert Stroud left his estate of $448 cash, royalties on his biography and a long manuscript to his sister, Mrs. Mami Shaffer, 80.

WARSAW — Sister Sophia, 88, of the order of St. Ursula, was given a one-month suspended prison sentence for barring entrance to Polish firemen who wanted to make a safety inspection of her convent.

AMARILLO, Tex. — A pair took the full house in a poker game.

game. Harold Cheshire, 39, told police he and four other men were having a friendly game when two men with guns broke in, taking $420.

HOLLYWOOD — Doctors disclosed actor Peter Sellers' heart stopped beating eight times after his recent attack. His condition remains serious but he allowed photographers in his room.

EDMONTON — Mayor Jack Oshash, 42, of Coleman, Alta., whose three children died when monoxide fumes filled the home, is in "slightly improved" condition following amputation of his right leg due to gangrene.

HOLLYWOOD — Doctors said the ulcer condition of comedian Milton Berle, 56, is not serious.

ATHENS — Cyprus' President Makarios said Greek Cypriot underground leader Gen. George Grivas has agreed the time is not ripe for his return to Cyprus.

NEW YORK — City hall rejected, without explanation, a Broadway ticker tape parade for Oscar-winning Negro actor Sidney Poitier. He will be officially congratulated at city hall by Mayor Robert Wagner.

PAWTUCKET, R.I. — Palestinian-born Michael Farnad was charged with posing as a doctor in a hospital here for four months, using the name of a Trinidad-born doctor friend in Montreal.

TORONTO — Rev. Arthur Bachman, 67, who took Christianity into beverage rooms and became known as the "padre of the pubs," died of a heart attack.

BONN — Defence Minister Kai-Uwe von Hassel said the West German navy would buy three new rocket destroyers from the U.S. equipped with Tartar surface-to-air missiles.

NEW YORK — Brilliant nuclear physicist Dr. Charles Galagher, 35, left his home for a meeting on the other side of Central Park. He was found in the park shot to death; his wallet was missing.

WINNIPEG — Tearoom operator Aunt Mary Passage, 73, mysteriously linked to death in January, left most of her $10,200 assets to 10 nuns she often visited in a convent. Her husband Guy, now in a nursing home, was left "the sum of $1 and nothing more."

WASHINGTON — President Johnson ordered intensive new efforts at the White House to mediate the railway dispute which threatens a U.S.-wide strike and asked for a report by Monday.

LONDON — The Earl of Mount Edgumbe, 80, admitted to the order of St. John of Jerusalem, said: "I feel a proper humbug."

Mather Fails in Effort To Lower Pension Age

OTTAWA (UPI) — New Westminster MP Barry Mather tried without success yesterday to lower the age for old-age pension recipients to 67 by 1967.

There are many thousands of Canadians across the country "with not enough to live on and too much to die on," Mather told the Commons.

Non-Italian Pope Seen For Church

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Franz Cardinal Koenig, archbishop of Vienna, foresees the time when the Roman Catholic Church will have a non-Italian pope and possibly even sanction more effective birth control procedures than rhythm.

Cardinal Koenig spoke Tuesday about the ecumenical council. He said he saw a "changed climate within the church" as a result of the ecumenical council called by the late Pope John XXIII.

He commented on birth control later in a press conference. Catholics accept the so-called rhythm system.

New Anti-Smoking Drive Due

Initial Scare Wearing Off

MONTREAL (UPI) — The initial scare seems to be wearing off among Canadian cigarette smokers.

It may be only a temporary lull, however, for new anti-smoking pressures are about to be unleashed.

A cross-Canada survey shows cigarette consumption, which dropped off significantly following publication of a U.S. report linking smoking and lung cancer, now has recovered most of the lost ground.

SALES HIGHER

Sales of cigars and candy—the "soothers" apparently tried by most persons trying to kick the cigarette habit—continue to rise over a year ago.

But cigarette consumption

also reverted to the normal pattern in March and showed an increase over 1963.

Cigarette manufacturers now appear more confident and, while some suggest possible adjustments in consumption habits, they appear optimistic that the worst may be over.

ANOTHER TEST PERIOD

From other sources, however, it seems possible that cigarettes and their consumers may be in for another crucial test period.

Governments and private organizations, quick to endorse U.S. Surgeon-General Luther Terry's anti-smoking report, but slow to act themselves, are swinging into action. Campaigns designed to discourage cigarette smokers are beginning to sprout up across the nation in what may be the start of a long and steady battle.

This week Health Minister Judy Lamarch announced anti-smoking publications are now off the press and ready for distribution to provincial governments.

"We are particularly worried about the high incidence of smoking among our teenage population," Miss Lamarch said.

"We feel our teenagers provide the most fertile field for educational activities and motivational research."

B.C.'s "QUIET WAR"

On the west coast the B.C. government is conducting its own "quiet war" against the smoking habit.

A smokers' clinic will soon be opened in Toronto with the approval of the provincial department of health.

THREE FRONTS

"We are attacking on three fronts," said a B.C. official of the Non-Smoking Society of Canada. "Our prime target is educating the children. Next we concentrate on those who want to quit and need help. And thirdly we go after the addicted

Hussein Appeals To U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — King Hussein of Jordan made an emotional appeal to the United States yesterday to reappraise its policies in the Middle East. He said "all Arabs" are convinced that Israel is a "real and ever present danger to their national survival."

The young king made the statement at a luncheon in his honor shortly before his second meeting with President Lyndon Johnson. A joint communique issued by the White House after the 50-minute meeting stressed the U.S. desire for "friendly relations with all Arab states."

The 29-year-old Hussein plans to spend a few days travelling in the United States before returning home.

Few Catch Her

Everybody's Chasing That Gay Divorcee

By MARTIN LADER
NEW YORK (UPI)—It's easy to see why men chase after Donna Mae Mims.

She's a delightful blonde with an intriguing smile, well-shaped figure and a laughing sense of humor. And much like most other members of her sex, she's lights in leading men a merry chase.

Only trouble is, Donna Mae doesn't want to get caught.

DOUBLE LIFE

For it's a double life Donna Mae leads, and when she isn't sitting at a secretary's desk she's pursuing her career as "The Pink Lady of Racing."

Driving sports cars isn't just a gag for Miss Mims. In 1963 she became the first female ever to earn a national title in the 20-year history of the Sports Car Club of America as she won the class H championship. Competing in 10 sanctioned races, she brought her Austin Healey Sprite home first twice and placed second three other times.

"A lot of male drivers think I'm out there to prove that I can beat them because they're men," says Donna Mae. "That isn't so. They claim that I sometimes change into the corners, cutting them off. I don't mean to. I'm just trying to win."

Miss Mims is the centre of attraction whenever she competes, and she makes it easy for spectators to follow her progress. Her car is pink, her coveralls are pink and her helmet is pink. Embellished across the rear deck of her Sprite is the reminder: "Think pink."

ODD THINGS

A lot of odd things can happen to a pink lady when she's racing against men.

"One day I remember I was racing against a driver whose steering wheel was on the right side of his car," Miss Mims recalled. "Mine's on the left. We were coming into a curve together, and he kept edging his car closer and closer to mine."

THE FOOL

"The fool, I thought. He's going to sidestripe me. But he didn't. When he was about three inches from my bumper he reached out, put his arm around my shoulder, and gave a big hug."

"I was so surprised I lost the race."

Donna Mae is 30 years old and twice divorced. She took up racing three years ago after her second marriage failed.

FILLS VOID

"After the failure of two marriages I said I was going to be a success at something," she explained. "Racing is it. I invaded the man's world to prove myself. It also fills a void in my life."

"I like to be treated like one of the boys. Cars and men don't mix as far as I'm concerned. I think my last marriage broke up because I drove my car faster than my husband did. He didn't like that."

The lone concession Donna Mae makes to men is in mechanics.

CANT IMAGINE

"I can change a differential, put in brake linings, change plugs and tires," she said, "but I can't figure out an engine. I can't imagine what makes a car go."

Donna Mae, a five-foot, three-inch 120-pounder, works during the week as a secretary in Pittsburgh. To help meet the approximately $5,000 it costs her to race each year, she also writes for automotive magazines.

"I admit I haven't seen a new dress or pair of shoes in quite a while," she said. "I've spent every cent on racing. But racing's more important to me. It's a wonderful challenge."

NOT INJURED

Miss Mims has not been injured in racing, although she once hit a tree at 55 miles per hour, and she denies she has "the death wish some people attribute to race drivers."

She's just a happy girl who enjoys her hobby. And, says Donna Mae, she's going to keep on racing until some man is fast enough to catch her.

close game into a rout for Los Angeles, established a league record in playoff competition.

Norm Johnson and Harold White led the Los Angeles scoring spree with two goals each. Camille Bedard, Marc Dufour, Leo LaBine and Willy O'Ree added the others. Ray Cyr and Tom Thurbay replied for San Francisco.

From Winnipeg Coach:

'Best Team Won'

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Kings defeated Winnipeg Buffaloes, 76-64, Wednesday to win the best-of-five Canadian senior men's basketball championship final in three straight games.

Toronto won the first game, 79-60, and the second, 80-65.

The Kings will represent Canada at the 1964 Olympics in Japan.

68. Barry Howson of Toronto was second with 50 points in the three-game set.

Ingaldson and Ken Galan-chuk, also of Winnipeg, led all point-getters in Wednesday's game with 17 each.

Ingaldson, former star with the University of Montana and a member of the Tillamook, Ont., Canadian champions in 1960, had only praise for the Toronto club after the game.

"The best team won," he said simply.

Five-Goal Burst

Blades Bury Seals

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Exploding with five goals in little more than two minutes, the fired-up Los Angeles Blades dealt San Francisco Seals a crushing 6-2 defeat in the Western Hockey League final Wednesday night.

The Blades' win trimmed the Seals' lead to 3-2 in the best-of-seven Lester Patrick Cup playoff series, which resume Friday night at San Francisco's Cow Palace.

The five-goal barrage in two minutes and 16 seconds of the third period, which turned a

Red Wings Work Out At Toledo Racetrack

DETROIT (CP)—Sid Abel is North America's most unusual employer—he encourages his workers to idle away their time at the racetracks while their competitors are working.

To prepare for tonight's third game in the Stanley Cup finals, manager-coach Abel escorted his Detroit Red Wings to the win, place and show windows at the Toledo, Ohio, Raceway Wednesday.

While the Wings were watching the horses go by, the Maple Leafs were in Toronto staging races of their own, up and down the ice surface at Maple Leaf Gardens.

No one in the hockey world

Wednesday was inclined to blast Abel for allowing his charges to fritter away their time.

At Toronto Tuesday night it was the Leafs who looked as if they were on holiday as they dropped a 4-3 overtime decision and were outshot 49 to 29.

The Wings were fresh from a day at the Fort Erie, Ont., racetrack where many of them picked up some extra cash and all of them gathered some tips on speed. Apparently inspired by the horses, the Red Wing forwards moved around the Gardens ice as if they were jet-propelled.

The Leafs, who always spend their between-game days at full-dress rehearsals, moved like sleepy snails for three-quarters of the game.

Punch Imlach, Abel's counterpart for the opposition, wants no part of picnics, bus outings or racetrack training.

"We have all summer to relax," Imlach said in Toronto Wednesday. "Right now our job is to win big hockey games, and as far as I'm concerned the only way to get ready for a game is to practise so we'll know what we're doing. Abel can have his horses."

The Leafs, minus reserve defenceman Kent Douglas, who received a slight injury at Wednesday's practice, were expected here by train late Wednesday night for the third and fourth games in the series.

Toronto won Saturday's opener 3-2 on a goal by Bob Pulford with two seconds remaining.

BIG WINNER

Tuesday night Norm Ullman, who had won $200 at Fort Erie the day before, did most of the work to set up Larry Jeffrey's overtime goal.

Both coaches say they will not change their strategy for tonight's game. Abel has given his wingers standing orders to moon in the Toronto corners and dig for the puck, a manoeuvre that proved ultra successful Tuesday.

NO STANDING AROUND

Imlach's policy: "We've got to out-hustle them. That's the only way to beat the Wings. I've told my guys they've got to skate, and the forwards can't just stand around and become spectators. The Detroiters can kill you as soon as you start standing still."

Toronto has missed the puck-clearing ability of defenceman Carl Brewer who suffered rib injuries in the seventh game of the semi-finals in Montreal. Brewer's forte is his skill at rushing the puck out of his own zone while the opposing forwards are getting turned around.

NOT IN SHAPE

Although he went all out in Wednesday's practice, Brewer said he still did not feel in top shape. Imlach said no decision about using him will be made until just before game time tonight.

The Wings reported from Toledo that all were fit and ready to go.

"I think we can take them now," said Gordie Howe. "This club has more spirit than any I've played with and there isn't a quitter in the crowd."

Win or lose, the Leafs will practise again Friday at Detroit Olympia while the Wings retire to Toledo.

When you weigh in at 130 pounds and want to play lacrosse you need all the help you can get, so Nirmal Dillon, working out with Victoria Shamrocks, is only too happy to get one of new helmets which all Inter-City Lacrosse League players must use this year.

First Hat-Trick

The men who designed the new lacrosse helmets to protect players from face cuts reckoned without the genius of Tom Collett.

In his years with Victoria Shamrocks, Collett has picked up more stitches than the average sewing circle, but last night he hit his peak.

More Than Suit Is Blue

Delayed Debut Bothers Yogi

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The smile was gone and Yogi Berra worried a big brown cigar stuffed into the centre of his mouth.

It made him look a bit like Ralph Houk, the man he succeeded as manager of the New York Yankees, both of them being short and solid.

FAVORS BROWN

Only Houk was different. He favored brown suits most of the time, and after the war years he put in the Rangers. The Major always wore a cloak of placidity.

Berra was dressed in blue. His irritation was obvious as he jittered from one foot to another.

"I gave up cigarettes during Lent and haven't gone back to them," Yogi said around his cigar.

"Nervous? Yeah, a little," he admitted. "I just wanna get the show on the road."

He prowled the almost empty dressing room after the players had run a few laps, loosened up their arms and struggled away one by one.

Yogi didn't sit in the swivel chair in the manager's office. He paced the roomly locker room in which, until this year, he always was the centre of the jokes and the laughter.

The Yankees hadn't played a game yet because the opener was postponed twice and his actions seemed to say that he badly wanted the little side room with the swivel chair.

Whitely Ford still pitches the opener," he said. "Jeez, ain't this rain ever gonna let up? It's sure gonna foul up my rotation."

BIG PLUS

There is a big plus sign going for Yogi. Houk was friendly with his players but wasn't their pal. Berra is and, while you give your best as a Yankee or you don't stay long on the premises, they figure to put out a little bit extra for Yogi.

Mickey Mantle, the last man on the field, summed it up best after delightfully throwing a few knuckle balls which the batboy couldn't catch.

DESPITE HIM

"Shucks," Mantle ribbed so that Yogi could hear it, "we'll win despite him."

In last night's feature game, San Francisco Giants scored 10 runs on six hits after two were out in the third inning to beat Milwaukee Braves, 10-8. It was the biggest losing the Giants have had since they moved west from New York.

Gonzales Returns

Pancho Gonzales, 35, who quit three years ago, has returned to pro tennis ranks as a full-time player. He has buried the hatchet with Jack Kramer, Los Angeles adviser of the new tour.

The scores are too high, the evenings too short as yet for even Faulkner, the well-known patriot, to predict that this will be the great revival season for British golf.

But to our rivals everywhere—South Africa, Australia, New Zealand and even the great fortress of the American circuit—I sound the warning note that at least we are on the march again.

To be perfectly frank the new movement is so young in conception that it may still be a couple of years before we are making ourselves heard. But, thanks to heaven, the Lost Generation that did so much damage to the international image of our game is being replaced by a new Go-Getting Squad.

Never in my now all-too-many years in golf have I known so many young Britons leaving their comfortable club appointments and setting out to seek their fortunes with bustling ambitions.

I have already met a dozen and heard of another ten youngsters who have wintered abroad, searching for experience and big-tournament competition. Most of them have done it on a shoestring, none has made a fortune.

But, in my book, these are men to encourage, to help... particularly when I recall that but six years ago rarely more than five British players had the guts to leave their winter fireplaces and follow the sun.

They Got Up and Went

Three youngsters have inspired this new movement: Alex Caysill, George Will and Brian Huggett. They got up and went and now a generation is following suit. To me, in my dotage, it is the most exciting news I have heard for years.

Already it is bringing results. Colleagues of mine who have played alongside Caysill report that, after five years of threatening to break-through, he is now ready for the big assault.

The tempering effect that a few months on the American circuit had on Will has already been seen in Britain where he spreadeagled the field in his first tournament and now threatens to do all our bank accounts considerable damage.

Huggett? Well, this little man has the spirit of Gary Player within him. Tough, irrepressible, sharp of tongue, a cold winner and a man who despises himself when he has been beaten... all big-match qualities that you never learn while carving up the prizemoney to mutual comfort at home.

But these aren't the only ones. Close on the heels of Arnold Palmer (and please note, after my comments last week that he is taking three weeks' holiday to recover after his victory) in the American Masters came Peter Butler. One shot behind Hogan, two shots behind Player is not a bad performance by a young man who is scarcely known in his own country.

These Young Lions have all my unstinted admiration. And, if somewhere among the readers of this column across the world there is another youngster dreaming of the thrill of a career in big international golf, I will offer this advice:

Go now. Don't wait until you can afford it—because that day will never come.

Cobras Can Be Tiresome

Personally if I were starting again I would take the George Will route as opposed to the Brian Huggett direction.

Will flung himself in at the deep end in America. Huggett took himself back to the Far East. And while both were showing real enterprise, it must be remembered that for the next few years at least the Far Eastern circuit is hardly more nerve-testing than the British.

True at Kuala Lumpur you occasionally think you're playing in a Turkish bath, and at Royal Calcutta there may be the occasional cobra to contend with. But the opposition is very much the same as you meet on the British circuit and the prize money is sometimes not even as good. It may be tougher when the Japanese—as they surely will—finally emerge as one of the three leading golfing nations in the world. But for now the real opposition, the real experience, is only to be found in America.

South Africa, too, will be a good testing ground in future. I gather that negotiations are underway to switch the big Springbok tournaments from before Christmas until after it.

Their idea is to attract bigger overseas entries and I should say that this, in future, will be battleground worth visiting.

Yet WHERE is splitting hairs... the great news for Britain, and for the world, is that a new breed of our best youngsters are throwing off the lethargy that was not far short of making us the laughing stock of the game.

New Junior Hockey Plan To Include Smaller Cities

REGINA (CP)—The Leader-Post says junior hockey officials will meet within the next two weeks in an attempt to establish a format for a two-division Western Canada Junior Hockey League.

In a bylined story columnist John Robertson says Frank Boucher, former National League great and now commissioner of the Saskatchewan Junior League, will invite the support of all Prairie clubs in establishing the loop.

If Boucher is successful, and Robertson says initial reaction has been favorable, the new league could be in operation by next fall.

As now envisioned one division would comprise Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon, Regina and two Winnipeg teams. The other would have entries from Flin Flon, Estevan, Weyburn, Moose Jaw, Melville and Brandon.

It is "a logical solution to the present ills plaguing junior hockey on the Prairies and... most important, it would provide a super-type league without squeezing out any of the smaller centres," adds Robertson.

He says the plan would be more acceptable than a suggestion by Boucher two years ago for a super junior league embracing all Canada.

NHL TO PAY

Under the new plan, each NHL team would be asked to contribute $25,000 to the league and the money would be divided proportionately among the 12 clubs. In return the NHL could handle the distribution of players through a pool or draft, whichever it desired.

The two divisions of the proposed loop would play separate schedules. The smaller centres would play 60 games to provide additional finances while the other division would play 48 games.

For playoff purposes the larger-city division would advance to the Western Canada Memorial Cup final and the other division to the semi-final.

To become a reality the plan first must be approved at a meeting of Western Canada junior officials, expected to be held at Estevan. If approved there it would be presented to the May meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association for ratification and then to the NHL's June meeting. Robertson said the proposal already has the support of Leo Leclerc, manager of Edmonton Oil Kings; Scotty Munro, owner-coach of Estevan Bruins; Del Wilson, manager of Regina Pats and chief scout for Montreal Canadiens of the NHL; Dennis Ball, owner of Winnipeg Rangers and western scout for New York Rangers; and Jake Milford, general manager of Brandon Wheat Kings.

Re-alignment of junior hockey on the prairies next year already has started. Brandon and Winnipeg Rangers seek entry in the SJHL and Fort Frances Royals, who also played in the Manitoba Junior League with Brandon and Rangers, have indicated they want to join the Thunder Bay Junior League next season.

Up-Island Fivepinners Join Bowling Bonspiel

Cheminatus Kilpila and Duncan Bowling Centre head what is expected to be a large number of out-of-town entries for the Daily Colonist's first annual Vancouver Island Fivepin Bonspiel.

Pat Fraser, a double threat who took part in the Daily Colonist's temp bonspiel earlier this month, heads the Duncan team with an average of 231. He will be supported by Clive Walton (228), Vern Barnett (206) and Jim Starling (226) to make up an entry which could put up a real challenge for the $400 first prize offered.

THOSE HANDICAPS

The Kilpila-Art and Lorraine Green, Maurice Marks and Jerry Melina—are medium-average bowlers. They have a combined average of 682 as against the 891 for the Duncan team but the Cheminatus quartet will start each three-game match with a handicap of 562 points as against the 123 for the Duncanites.

The Duncan and Cheminatus teams, along with all other visiting teams entered, will start bowling on Saturday, May 2. By Sunday night they will either have been eliminated or will be in the semi-finals of one of the three events. Semi-finals will be bowled on Saturday, May 9.

COMING STEADILY

Victoria-area entries continue to come in steadily. Included in the latest are two more teams who will start with practically no handicap and rely on bowling at least up to their high averages.

Reg Waggoner heads The Strikers with his 241 average and will be supported by Stan Bell (239), Emil Linka (236) and Fred Sallis (231). Harry Cool tops Nott Plumbing with 243 and has as teammates Bill Cool (238), Bill McKinnon (238) and Jim Nett (217).

ONE UNDER SCRATCH

It makes things look tough but the handicap will tend to even things up considerably. The Strikers, at 949 are just one point under the scratch figure and will get only two points for each three-game match while Nott's Plumbing will get only 29 points.

Perhaps the youngest team entered is the Top Cats, a quartet of newspaper carriers with averages which indicate they won't be long before they are classed with the city's fivepin elite. Stan Daniels is averaging 213. Randy Burgayne 201 and Wayne Forland and Robert Baker are both at 199 for the competition.

Among other recent entries are the following teams:

Queen's Own Rifles—Charlie McGraw (187), Cliff Bechtel (191), Don Bernick (201), Jack Sadleir (240).

Rebels—Al Leland (194), Julian Lelano (207), Doug Rowse, Dave Williams (233).

Totem Travel—Bill Ferguson (213), Ron Fearing (208), Earl Woods (204), Dick Scherr (192).

STILL TIME

Entry deadline for the bonspiel is Monday, April 27, and there is still time for city teams to take advantage of the bonus offer of a free practice game for each week paid-up entry is made before the deadline. Forms are available at Gibson's Bowldrome.

'Future of Country' His Message

Hees on Buy, Buy, Buy Drive To Boost Stock Investment

MONTREAL (UPI) — George Hees, the former trade minister who convinced Canadian businessmen to sell, sell, sell, is about to launch the same kind of campaign in reverse.

This time, as newly-appointed president of the Montreal Stock Exchange, he wants Canadians to buy, buy, buy—in the future of their country.

MONEY ONLY LIMIT

"The only limit on this country's development will be the amount of money we can raise to finance it," Hees says. "We need all we can attract from abroad and, even more important, we've got to stop being so backward about putting up our own dollars to finance our development."

In hopes of loosening the $1,000,000,000 he says the average Canadian now has tucked away in the "safe, soft sock" of savings accounts and bonds, Hees plans a major speaking tour, starting here next week, to convince the "little Canadian" that it is in his own interest to turn this money into investment capital.

STRESS BENEFITS

"I hope to tell him in pretty straightforward language of the material benefits that will accrue to him," he explained. "You've got to convince people that it's in their own interest to do something and that's what I intend to do."

"I'm not going to limit myself to their patriotism. I'm going to appeal to their pocketbook."

BY TALK ALONE

The 53-year-old "retired politician," who spearheaded a sharp increase in Canadian exports by convincing businessmen to sell abroad and then getting his trade department to help them, is hopeful he can carry out his new crusade by talk alone.

"At this stage at least, I have not thought of any practical steps to spur investment such as we used in the trade department to help exporters," he said. "But I'm hopeful that, because I told businessmen to get out and sell and it paid off for them, the average Canadian will believe me this time when I tell him it's in his own interest to invest in the development of his country."

BETTER RELATIONS

Hees also has assigned himself the complimentary job of improving relations between the financial community and the public.

"I've got to correct the erroneous impression the public seems to have about the kind of man a stock broker is," he said. "On the other side, I have to convince the stock broker that the little man is the most important person in his life and should be treated as such."

Easing of Divorce Stand Sought

Synod Moves for Remarriage

The Anglican Synod of the diocese of B.C. moved yesterday to make it possible for divorced people to be married by Anglican clergymen.

The motion was passed by a majority of clerical and lay delegates to the synod from all parishes on Vancouver Island.

Canon 27 now prohibits any Anglican clergyman from marrying a divorced person whose previous partner is still alive.

Earlier in the day Archbishop Harold Sexton of British Columbia, in his 27th charge to the synod, said that the situation calls for examination rather than condemnation.

He also scored unwholesome and suggestive literature as a "menace to the moral and spiritual health of our community."

On sex education in the schools, he said that many "of those who know the real conditions are troubled about the lax morals prevalent among young people today and feel that the situation calls for examination rather than condemnation."

Many experienced parents and teachers feel that factual biological information to school children must be supplemented by the teaching of moral and spiritual principles, he said.

A motion was passed yesterday to recommend to the provincial synod the appointment of a provincial supervisor of Indian work.

"Almost all of our Indian work is in this diocese," said Archbishop Patrick Ellis of Campbell River, superintendent of Columbia Coast Mission, who made the motion. "The Indians feel the church should speak for them more strongly than they do."

Diocesan youth worker Gillian Clarke of Victoria told the group that adult councilors and leaders of both sexes, aged 16 and up, are needed for Camp Columbia on Thetis Island.

Archdeacon Ellis said the Columbia Coast Mission had been taken off the Vancouver Community Chest list at a loss to the mission of $4,600.

"Why is it that the church cannot produce dedicated doctors and other men for this work?" he asked.

The motion on marriage of divorced persons was prepared by a special committee appointed by Archbishop Sexton and was made at yesterday's meeting by Victoria lawyer H. L. Henderson. Seconded by the Reverend A. E. Hendy, rector of St. Dunstan's, Gordon Head.

The recommendation for the revision of the present rule (Canon 27) will now be made to the General Synod of Canada.

The revised canon would give bishops authority under certain conditions to allow Anglican clergymen to marry divorced persons, although their partners are still living, so long as the bishops are "satisfied that there were good grounds for such annulment or dissolution" by Canadian civil courts.

Archbishop Sexton said the bishops "on the whole are sympathetic" to the motion.

"They are a very conservative group," he said. "If they approve, you may be sure it's quite safe."

Sessions of the synod will end today.

Cowichan Bees Ride To Peace Area Soon

By KLAUS MUENTER

COBBLE HILL—The migrating bees of the Cowichan Valley soon will leave for the larger Peace River pastures.

But unlike the birds, they do not fly the 1,000 miles. They will be carried by large trucks of the Rideau Honey Company, which recently established a branch here.

Their destination is Hines Creek, Alberta. This spring the company, whose main operation is at Kemptville, about 35 miles south of Ottawa, will mark the second time it has transferred part of its honey-producing stock to the Peace River area after wintering in the Cowichan Valley.

The branch here has 700 hives, housing about 14,000,000 bees, who soon will gather the nectar in the alfalfa, clover and rape seed fields surrounding Hines Creek.

The Cobble Hill branch is under the supervision of veteran apiarist Don Gannon, the company foreman, who will return to his Kemptville home as soon as the bees are taken north.

Company president is Victor Mesley, who is also the chairman of the Canadian Beekeepers' Council.

The main operation in the east includes 3,000 hives and employs up to 15 people during the peak period. The B.C. branch engages two men here, and about four during the summer in the Peace River area.

Mr. Gannon says similar operations in the Peace River area and the Prairies destroy all hives in the fall and start in the spring with new stock sent to them in packages.

He is building new colonies by dividing strong hives and with the help of queens shipped from Texas, California or Florida.

When completed this summer, the western branch of Rideau Honey will have 950 hives instead of 700.

Mr. Gannon said as the bee society is subject to "a strong and merciless code," imported queens have to be slowly introduced to the new colony.

One method of doing this is to keep the queen in her shipping compartment which is fitted into one of the trays until the workers are accustomed to their new ruler.

In nature the larvae to become queens are selected by the workers and fed a special diet—royal jelly.

Some days ago a box with 50 queens from Texas arrived at Cobble Hill with workers to feed them on their journey.

Mr. Gannon said the price for one queen ranges from $1.35 to $2, but at times queens are hard to get and the artificial formation of new hives becomes difficult.

The Cobble Hill operation uses the Italian strain and some Caucasian bees, but Mr. Gannon said the Italian species is a better honey producer.

As all the hives of the company are taken to another province during the summer months, government inspection is very strict.

He said the average harvest per hive is between 150 and 180 pounds and at present, because of better market conditions, the honey from his company is shipped back east and sold wholesale to various packing houses.

When the trucks bring back the bees to the wintering quarters in the Cowichan Valley, many of the workers will have worn themselves out and died, as the average life span of a worker bee is only about six weeks.

However, queens living considerably longer, reproduce in abundance in the fragrant richness of the dark bee cities.

With these words, Mrs. Joan Lundahl probably saved her partner's life yesterday as a fire roared through their photographic studio.

Hearing On Pool

Esquimalt council has called a public hearing to find out whether the ratepayers want a $383,000 municipal swimming pool.

The hearing will be held in Esquimalt Junior High School at 8 p.m. April 27.

VOTE PLANNED

If the idea of an indoor swimming pool receives public approval, a referendum will be put to the ratepayers late in May or early June.

The pool would be built between the Sports Centre and Lyall Street, adjacent to Bullen Park.

$300,000 BYLAW

The money bylaw probably will be about $300,000 because it is estimated that after savings from the Municipal Development Loan Fund and the Winter Works program ratepayers will only have to meet $277,500 of the $383,000 total cost.

Mrs. Fred Ryzak said she was working in a darkroom in the back of the Craig Street shop yesterday afternoon and was not aware of any danger until Mrs. Lundahl cried out.

ESCAPES FLAMES—The fire, which started in the interior of the firm—containing inflammable film and other substances—was in flames.

On her dash to safety she checked upstairs apartments, made certain the occupants had escaped, grabbed a set of plans for her new house and left through the only entrance to the studio.

Mrs. Ryzak said the fire started in a copying room, although none of the equipment was in use at the time.

The studio, which also contained a permanent display of local paintings and pottery, suffered about $4,000 damage.

The loss was covered by insurance.

U.S. Students Guests Here

15 Years

Slayer Goes To Jail

NANAIMO—An Alert Bay man, originally charged with capital murder, was sentenced to 15 years in prison yesterday after his conviction on a reduced charge of manslaughter.

Robert Morley, 42, charged with the death of Linda Wadhams, 19, last Nov. 7, was told by Justice Court Judge J. S. Atkins the fact Morley was drunk when the girl was stabbed saved him from the capital murder conviction.

SEX IMPLICATIONS—Mr. Justice Atkins also said he believed there had been some sexual implications in the crime, and there was some hope of rehabilitation for Morley through the long term.

The girl was found wandering naked near her home after a drinking party attended by Morley.

She was wounded in the abdomen and died several days later from internal infection.

During the eight-day trial, 18 crown witnesses testified and more than 40 exhibits were introduced.

Flood Aid

Speedup In Fund Sought

NANAIMO—Mayor Pete Maffeo, chairman of the Vancouver Island Relief Committee, is urging Island municipalities to hasten collections for the fund.

The mayor said yesterday some municipalities had been holding up their collections at local banks, while the money was needed as soon as possible by the stricken areas.

The Island committee, with representation from most municipalities on the island, hopes to collect $250,000.

Nanaimo council awarded $2,500 to the fund yesterday, and acknowledged a gift of $365 from the city's Chinese community.

FIRE RECALLED

Mayor Maffeo said the latter gift was spurred by the generosity of other Island points when a large portion of Chinatown was levelled by fire a few years ago.

Meanwhile, at Port Alberni, the most recent tally this week showed a total of $136,985 had been received by the Alberni Valley and West Coast Disaster Fund.

Ald. Jack Perry, who has acted as treasurer for the fund, says the amount represents actual cash on hand, and does not include pledges from citizens and organizations.

The Anglican Church of Canada yesterday unveiled the disaster fund by $10,000 with a donation from the Primate's World Relief Fund.

Archbishop Harold Sexton, who announced the gift in Victoria, said also the collection at Church Church Cathedral Sunday would also be given the tidal wave victims.

Daff Count Passed Up

Victoria will not take up the challenge of Niagara Falls tourist officials who have offered to compare daffodils.

The Greater Niagara Chamber of Commerce had wired W. H. Warren, Victoria parks administrator, offering to compare the number of daffodils in Queen Victoria Park overlooking Niagara Falls with any three-acre patch of the flowers in Victoria.

Mr. Warren said yesterday

Victoria, with a much milder climate, has nearly seen the last of its daffodils for this year—they having begun to bloom in late March.

Church Taking Over

Ghost at 1728 Quadra Losing Home

By JACK FRY

What will become of the ghost of 1728 Quadra Street when the 90-year-old house is torn down to make room for a church?

Members of the George Larrigan family aren't sure what will become of their uninvited visitor—but they claim he has been there at least two generations.

The Larrigan home at the southwest corner of Quadra and North Park streets has been sold as part of a site for a new church and the family will move to Beach Drive this month.

Mrs. Larrigan recently found a special edition of The New York Herald describing in detail the assassination of Abraham Lincoln and, while talking about it yesterday, added a ghost might be around to read it.

Date on the well-preserved newspaper, discovered while Mrs. Larrigan was packing her belongings, was April 15, 1865—98 years ago yesterday. The little wood-frame building was built in 1874 by the late John Ward, a great-grandfather of George Larrigan.

Streets were unpaved in those days and North Park was then known as Pioneer.

A folding brass key patented March 23, 1869, and still among the Larrigan's possessions, unlocked the corner door leading into Mr. Ward's general store.

Living quarters are adjacent to the dusty old general store which has been closed since the late 1940s when the last of the Wards passed away and Mr. Larrigan inherited the property.

It is a strange house, full of relics from the past century. A reporter cranked the old-fashioned doorbell and stepped in on the narrow corridor lined with collector's items.

Mrs. Larrigan produced the yellowing newspaper which told of Lincoln's assassination at Ford's Theatre, and that Jefferson Davis intended to hold Virginia "at all hazards" despite the Confederacy's loss of Richmond.

She later mentioned "strange things" which happen in the old house.

Her husband had told her to keep the doors locked and, on one occasion when the outside doors were locked, Mrs. Larrigan said she heard a shuffling of shoes across the floor in another room.

She went through every room in the house but found nobody.

Frequently she has heard a "click" at the front door lock followed by footsteps along the corridor, when nobody is there.

She told her husband about the noises and he replied they had been heard by his mother.

Mrs. Larrigan's story was confirmed by her daughter, Mrs. Marlew Johansen, who also lives there with her children John, 11, and Susy, 9.

"Susy asked us to save one empty box so we can take the ghost along when we move at the end of the month," said Mrs. Johansen.

26 Ships Load Up

PORT ALBERNI—A total of 26,738 tons of forest products was shipped in 26 freighters from here during March.

The cargoes included 11,795 tons of lumber; 15,335 tons of paper; 2,730 tons of pulp; 2,525 tons of plywood and 570 tons of shingles.

Safecracking Bid

One Sent to Oakalla Other to Brannen

UCLUELET — Two Ahousaht Reserve juveniles have been ordered imprisoned for indefinite terms after their conviction here for attempted safecracking. Magistrate J. F. Webb was told they rented a room at a Tofino hotel and were later caught by the watchman while trying to open the safe. One of the youths, with a previous police record, will serve his sentence in Oakalla while the other will be confined at Brannen Lake School. Andrew Charlie was found guilty of possessing liquor and fined $50. He chose instead to go to jail for 30 days. Reginald Loewen of Ucluelet was found guilty of consuming liquor in a public place and fined $20 and costs. Dick McCarthy was fined $20 for driving without a licence and an additional $20 for careless driving.

Court of Revision Set in Parksville

PARKSVILLE — A court of revision will sit at the municipal office May 4 to hear appeals on assessment for the sewer frontage tax. Notice of appeal must reach the office of the assessor at least 48 hours before the time appointed for the first sitting of the court, officials said yesterday.

Around the Island

Centres Offer Free Vaccine

Three Island centres will offer free Sabin oral polio vaccine during clinics Friday and Saturday. The clinics will be held in the health unit at Chemainus, next to Malon's Barber Shop in Parksville and the Qualicum Beach Health Centre. Clinic hours in all centres will be from noon to 8 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday. Health unit authorities have been urging all residents of Chemainus, Parksville and Qualicum Beach who received initial doses of the oral vaccine last November to use the free service this week for a booster shot.

PORT ALBERNI — Port Alberni Harbor Commission proposals for improvements to the harbor here were given special attention by an inter-departmental group which visited the area recently. A spokesman for the commission said the visitors, representing the federal departments of transport and public works, also viewed the damage done by the tidal wave March 28, when they inspected harbor facilities.

NANAIMO — About 70 bicycling school children will take a series of safety tests beginning at 9 a.m. today in exams designed to demonstrate ability and safety sense.

Pay Days Cut For Sea Cadets

OTTAWA (CP) — The number of days for which sea cadet officers can receive pay and allowances for training has been reduced to 20 a year from 30. Associate Defence Minister Carlin says. The new regulation became effective April 1.

NORTH COWICHAN — Council here decided yesterday to investigate a landfill-type garbage disposal system which would serve the entire municipality.

A consulting engineer reported to councillors on the system as well as the possibility of an incinerator, but the latter—which would cost $250,000—was rejected by councillors.

In other business, council:

● Issued a two-month permit to the Mount Brenton Golf Club, to allow the club trainer to live in a trailer at the club.

● Learned from the provincial department of highways a survey into the possibility of left-turn lanes on the Trans-Canada Highway at Mount Sicker Road will soon be carried out.

● Approved an application by B.C. Forest Products to operate 15 trailer units at the construction site of the Kraft Paper Mill addition.

● Awarded a contract for garbage collection and dump maintenance in Chemainus to A. C. Niehaus for $345 a month.

● Set the date of the annual budget meeting for next Wednesday at 3 p.m.

Hussein Appeals To U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — King Hussein of Jordan made an emotional appeal to the United States yesterday to reappraise its policies in the Middle East. He said "all Arabs" are convinced that Israel is a "real and ever present danger to their national survival."

The young king made the statement at a luncheon in his honor shortly before his second meeting with President Lyndon Johnson. A joint communiqué issued by the White House after the 50-minute meeting stressed the U.S. desire for "friendly relations with all Arab states."

The 23-year-old Hussein plans to spend a few days travelling in the United States before returning home.

New Anti-Smoking Drive Due

Initial Scare Wearing Off

MONTREAL (UPI) — The initial scare seems to be wearing off among Canadian cigarette smokers.

It may be only a temporary lull, however, for new anti-smoking pressures are about to be unleashed.

A cross-Canada survey shows cigarette consumption, which dropped off significantly following publication of a U.S. report linking smoking and lung cancer, now has recovered most of the lost ground.

SALES HIGHER

Sales of cigars and candy—the "soothers"—apparently tried by most persons trying to kick the cigarette habit—continue to rise over a year ago.

But cigarette consumption

also reverted to the normal pattern in March and showed an increase over 1963.

Cigarette manufacturers now appear more confident and, while some suggest possible adjustments in consumption habits, they appear optimistic that the worst may be over.

ANOTHER TEST PERIOD

From other sources, however, it seems possible that cigarettes and their consumers may be in for another crucial test period.

Governments and private organizations, quick to endorse U.S. Surgeon-General Luther Terry's anti-smoking report, but slow to act themselves, are swinging into action. Campaigns designed to discourage cigarette smokers are beginning to sprout up across the nation in what may be the start of a long and steady battle.

This week Health Minister Judy Lamarch announced anti-smoking publications are now off the presses and ready for distribution to provincial governments.

"We are particularly worried about the high incidence of smoking among our teenage population," Miss Lamarch said. "We feel our teen-agers provide the most fertile field for educational activities and motivational research."

B.C.'s "QUIET WAR"

On the west coast the B.C. government is conducting its own "quiet war" against the smoking habit.

A smokers' clinic will soon be opened in Toronto with the approval of the provincial department of health.

THREE FRONTS

"We are attacking on three fronts," said a B.C. official of the Non-Smoking Society of Canada. "Our prime target is educating the children. Next we concentrate on those who want to quit and need help. And thirdly we go after the addicted

Vandals Hit Varsity

Small children are believed to have been responsible for considerable vandalism damage at the University of Victoria residence construction site Tuesday night. Damage is estimated at about $300.

A bulldozer had two lights and an air filter broken, a grease gun was emptied around it, broken and abandoned, and a hydraulic dipstick was broken. About 250 drainage tiles were broken.

All light bulbs in the basement of the building were smashed. A large number of bricks were hurled from the top floor of the building under construction and broken. Damage was discovered by workmen yesterday morning.

Disputed Sino-Soviet frontier

CHINA ARMS DEATH STRIP

HONG KONG (AP)—Red China has sent substantial troop reinforcements to Sinkiang province and has cleared and fortified a belt 20 miles deep along hundreds of miles of the disputed border with Russia, White Russian refugees said Wednesday.

The refugees from the remote region of north-west China reported the two feuding giants of world communism are waging a propaganda war across the border and tension runs high.

In their feud over the best road to world Communist domination, Peking and Moscow frequently have lifted the curtain on their private cold war in Sinkiang.

The refugees, who reported they abruptly were allowed to leave Sinkiang recently after a four-year ban, gave what they said was a first-hand account of the struggle in one corner of the vast region. There were 125 White Russians in the party that reached Hong Kong after 12 days on buses and trains.

They came from Kuldja (Ting), 50 miles from the Soviet frontier, where Moslem minorities revolted and were bloodily suppressed on May 28, 1962. They gave this account of events leading up to the bloodshed in Kuldja:

Soviet consular and military representatives in Kuldja had worked for years on the Moslems, indoctrinating them and urging they go to the Soviet Union. Then in 1960, the Soviet consulate began distributing passports to all Moslems.

A flood of Moslems began to cross into the Soviet Union. There were rumors in Kuldja that 500,000 to 600,000 crossed.

The alarmed Chinese then decided to clamp down and that led to the rioting in Kuldja.

The May 29 demonstrations were the first and last in Kuldja," one White Russian said. "The city has been turned into an armed camp. Troops are everywhere."

They said that in setting up a sort of buffer belt along the border, the Chinese cleared civilians from a number of villages and turned the villages into military bases.

Mao Bungled—Nikita

MOSCOW (AP)—Waving his arms in anger, Soviet Premier Khrushchev said Wednesday Red China now preaches world revolution because Mao Tse-tung and other leaders bungled in trying to solve problems at home.

Peking's policies "have created serious difficulties for the world Communist movement and placed it on the verge of a split," he told a Polish-Soviet friendship meeting in the Kremlin.

CAUTIOUS SUPPORT

The meeting was an encouraging one for the premier. Wladyslaw Gomulka, the visiting Polish party leader, announced cautious support for the Soviet call for a world Communist showdown meeting on Red China. While backing Moscow, Poland has been reported cool toward a showdown meeting, fearing an irreparable division of world communism.

His voice rising to a shout, Gomulka ridiculed the Chinese for calling the West "a paper tiger." He declared no "imperialist" country is ripe for revolution, as Peking contends, "least of all the United States."

SCOFFS AT ASPIRATIONS

In his address, Khrushchev scoffed at Red Chinese aspirations for leadership of world communism. He said the Chinese would like to "become the leaders and mentors of the revolutionary movement in Asia, Africa and Latin America," but

Red China Goes If Russia Stays

Foreign Aid Slashed By Moscow

LONDON (UPI)—The Soviet Union has drastically reduced aid to the developing nations because of domestic economic difficulties and disappointment over the results of its assistance policies.

These findings emerged from a study published in the current issue of the Royal Institute of International Affairs, The World today.

The Soviet's foreign payments position, according to the study, was responsible for "the discernible loss of impetus in Russia's aid to retarded countries outside her orbit."

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI)—A threatened boycott by Communist China blocked Russia's participation Wednesday in the proposed second Afro-Asian solidarity conference.

Indonesia and The Philippines also succeeded in freezing out Malaysia.

The decision not to invite Russia and Malaysia was reached after hours of heated debate by the 23-nation preparatory ministers meeting.

Informed sources said, after the extraordinary session which lasted until 3 a.m., that Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi told the delegates in unmistakable words China would not attend if the Russians were invited.

Stolen Nitro, Radio Seized in Montreal

MONTREAL (UPI)—Quebec provincial police seized nitroglycerin and radio transmitting equipment in a raid on an east-end apartment Wednesday in their crackdown on suspected members of the terrorist Quebec liberation army.

The raid followed a 48-hour stakeout on the apartment.

WAITED TWO DAYS

"We waited two days for someone to go in or come out," a police spokesman said. "But after watching, and no one showed, we decided to go in."

The nitro was removed safely by an explosives expert from Canadian Industries Ltd. No arrest accompanied the raid, but the spokesman said the raid was connected with another seizure, announced yesterday, of 450 sticks of dynamite in a Laurentian cabin.

The Laurentian dynamite seizure led to speculation the new wave of separatist terrorism is being directed from the mountain resort area.

Turk Fire Returned By Canadians

NICOSIA (UPI)—Canadian troops of the United Nations peace force exchanged fire with Cypriot soldiers for the first time Wednesday as heavy battles raged in Nicosia and its northern suburbs for the second consecutive day.

British UN troops also fired back at Cypriot fighters in the heaviest shooting since the communal war between Greek and Turkish Cypriots broke out last December on this eastern Mediterranean island.

(See also Page 3)

TAKING PART
A Turkish defence ministry spokesman in Ankara said Turkish air force planes and submarines also were taking part in the fleet exercise scheduled to be completed by Sunday. He said live ammunition was being used in the manoeuvres. Turkey has held fleet manoeuvres near Cyprus whenever violence on the island has been reported rising.

'Stunning' Victory Won By Reds

SAIGON (AP)—Military leaders assessed Wednesday the grim results of a three-day battle in a southern area of South Viet Nam set off by a deliberate Communist massacre of government army soldiers at Kien Long, a district capital. "A stunning Communist political victory" was the judgment of one American observer in that bleeding, grief-stricken region.

HEAVIEST TOLL

U.S. advisers said nearly 300 government soldiers had been killed or wounded—the heaviest toll of a single engagement in the war. They said civilian casualties may exceed 200. The bodies of 50 or 60 guerrillas were counted in fire-charred paddy fields.

The government mounted its drive after the Communists moved out of a base Sunday in the forest of U Minh, along the Gulf of Siam, and overran Kien Long, which is on a section of the Ca Mau peninsula, long their stamping ground.

CHIEF DISMEMBERED

The raiders publicly dismembered the district chief. They slew his young son. They broke the arms and legs of the chief's wife and then killed her with a shot in the head. They slew other government sympathizers, then headed back into the countryside.

In the ensuing battle, two Communist Viet Cong battalions opposed a government paratroop battalion, a ranger battalion, two infantry battalions and a special forces unit. Surprisingly, they carried the fight into government lines even to daylight.

Rodrigues

Carlow 'Partner' Found in Calgary

The man who escaped Colquitz prison with Frank Carlow has been apprehended in Calgary.

Search police said last night they have been notified of the recapture of Richard Rodrigues, 28, who broke out of the prison with Carlow Feb. 28.

SIX MONTHS

He was sentenced April 6 to an additional six months for escaping.

It is not certain Rodrigues, who was serving a term for burglary, will see the Colquitz prison soon. He faces 12 charges of breaking and entering in Calgary.

Carlow claimed he never saw Rodrigues after the two men escaped through a basement window, from which they had sawed a bar, in the Colquitz dining hall.

TO TELL PUBLIC

Carlow, 26, caused a furor when, hours after his escape, he got in touch with members of the press and said he had escaped only to tell the public of unbearable conditions.

Carlow's charges were denied by prison authorities, and there have been no announcements of any changes in conditions.

Defence Thefts Quiet

Great Garbage-Can Raid, Too!

OTTAWA (CP)—A can opener was stolen from the RCAF station at Downsview, Ont., last October, it was disclosed Wednesday. It followed, by less than a month, the theft of a garbage can from the RCAF station at Bagotville, Que.

With the chips who raided two Quebec armories earlier this year hogging all the publicity, a less ambitious band of defence property lifters was working from coast to coast without fanfare.

A piccolo was hoisted from HMCS Naden last Christmas Eve. And just two weeks later someone left Camp Ship, Man., with some sewer cleaner.

Between the notorious raid on the Montreal armories and the equally notorious raid on the Shawinigan armories, someone stole two pounds of beef from Camp Gagetown, N.B.

All these thefts from national defence property were disclosed Wednesday when Associate Defence Minister Cardian replied to a question by Gordon Churchill, former Conservative defence minister who wanted a list of all such thefts since last Sept. 1. The list had about 270 items, stolen in all sorts of quantities.
